FRENCH YIELD EGYPT FLEET TO BRITISH

STATE LIBRARY OF MASSACHUSETTS
BOSTON, U. S. A.

ALEXANDRIA, July 9 (AP) — French naval authorities here agreed today to turn over the entire French fleet at Alexandria to the British. The French are arranging transportation to France of the crews of all the warships. The French decision removed the possibility of a British-French naval battle here such as occurred at Oran, Algeria, July 3, and left the British fleet free to move more of its power against the Italians in the Mediterranean.

'She's Just My Secretary'

Possibility that Jim had a new heart interest arose in the minds of reporters . . . but young Roosevelt explained, "There's no romance or anything like that."

BRITISH CRIPPLE BIG FRENCH SHIP

LONDON, July 9 (INS)—Damaged by British warships, the French 35,000-ton battleship Richelieu is at Dakar, capital of French West Africa, it was revealed to the House of Commons this afternoon by the Hon. A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty.

Alexander reported that after the commander of one of France's newest and mightiest dreadnaught's had failed to reply to the British conditions, the Richelieu was attacked yesterday to prevent her from falling into German hands.

A daring feat of British seamanship was employed in the attack, Alexander disclosed.

TORPEDOED BY PLANES

A speedy motorboat swept up under the very stern of the French warship and dropped depth charges, damaging the Richelieu's propellors and steering gear.

Simultaneously, British torpedo planes zoomed down upon the big battleship and launched their missles.

All the attacking British air and sea craft returned safely, Alexander reported.

The Richelieu was last seen listing badly to the port side and settling in the stern, he declared.

Meanwhile two more German warplanes were reported shot down off the southeast coast of England as Anglo-German aerial warfare reached a new peak of intensity.

8 PLANES DOWNED

Official British announcements said eight German planes were shot down yesterday and that three British aircraft were lost.

During the night, it was stated, German raiders crossed the eastern and southern coasts of England and the northeast Scottish coast, dropping bombs on districts near the sea.

'HANDLE' FLAME BOMBS

Some damage to buildings and a few casualties were reported.

Later this morning seven bombs were dropped on a Welsh town, causing slight damage. German planes also were reported again over northwestern England.

An official communique this afternoon stated:

"There was no damage of any consequence. A few casualties were caused by sporadic raids on northeastern and southeastern England and Scotland during the night and early today.

"Many incendiary bombs which

French Deputies O.K. Dictator by Vote of 395 to 3

VICHY, France, July 9 (INS) — The French Chamber of Deputies today approved a change in France's constitution which will give the nation a totalitarian form of government under the virtual dictatorship of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain.

The proposal for a new constitution was approved by a vote of 395 to 3.

Prior to this action, mobilization of two French military classes—those of 1914 and 1915—was revealed as the Petain government moved into the European totalitarian line-up.

Mobilization of still more military classes will follow, it was stated.

WAR PROBE ORDERED

Shortly before approving alteration of the constitution, the Chamber of Deputies unanimously adopted a resolution calling for investigation of France's part in the European war against Germany for the purpose of "appropriate expiation."

Vice Premier Pierre Laval, representing the government before the Chamber asked the deputies to confirm their confidence in Premier Petain. Laval told the deputies:

"The misfortune brought upon us by the wantonness of those who dragged us into war imposes a sacred duty to safeguard the leadership of France.

"Therefore I urge Parliament to grant the necessary means and unanimously confirm confidence in Marshal Petain."

PETAIN GETS POWER

This was followed by unanimous approval of the resolution requesting the government to undertake immediate investigation of those responsible for cause and conduct of the war from political, civil and military angles, and to investigate also responsibility for France's insufficient supply of war materials.

The resolution said this inquiry should be carried out with "intent to secure appropriate expiation."

The resolution as presented to the Chamber by Laval contained this powerful enabling article:

"The National Assembly grants to the government of the republic represented by Premier Petain all powers to decree a new French constitution.

"The constitution shall guarantee the rights of labor, the family and the country and will be ratified by the Assembly, which will be its author."

3-MAN CABINET SEEN

Following approval of the constitutional change by both the Chamber and the Senate, the proposal will be submitted as a whole to the National Assembly.

The new French government will be based closely on those of Europe's present totalitarian states, and is expected to consist of a three-man cabinet with Petain as chairman and leader.

Plans for changing the constitution were approved at a meeting of the cabinet council, presided over by President Albert Lebrun.

In a proposed set-up, it is expected, Gen. Maxime Weygand, Laval and former Labor Minister Adrien Marquet will govern the nation.

FRENCH ISLE FLEET IN TRAP

GRENOBLE, France, July 9 (AP)—The French fleet blockaded at the Caribbean island of Martinique includes France's only aircraft carrier, the 22,146-ton Bearn, and is expecting to be attacked by the British "at any moment," it was stated in a dispatch to the newspaper Le Petit Dauphinois today.

This island, which lies within the Pan-American neutrality zone, "is expecting a British ultimatum and intervention at any moment," said the dispatch, which came from Vichy, seat of the French government.

The fleet was said to be cut off from outside communication by the British blockade. French navy ministry sources were quoted as saying the French ships included the Bearn, the 6496-ton training cruiser Jeanne D'Arc, submarines and several smaller craft.

The ultimatum expected presumably was one such as the six-hour order delivered to the French fleet off Mers el-Kebir, Algeria, last week, demanding the vessels comply with British conditions designed to keep them away from France and possible participation in the war on the side of Germany or Italy, or suffer attack.

The Algerian fleet chose attack.

JAP-U. S. QUARREL TAKES GRAVER TURN

SHANGHAI, July 9 (AP)—Major General Saburo Miura, commander of Japanese gendarmes, demanded an apology today from the commander of United States Marines in the International Settlement for alleged maltreatment of 15 plain clothes gendarmes while in marine custody.

He declared that "speedy settlement of the incident is necessary or the matter is likely to take a grave turn."

Miurta previously had apologized for the presence of the gendarmes in the American defense area of the International Settlement in violation of an agreement not to enter without American military authorities' consent.

Miura said that despite his previous agreement to consider the incident closed, "discovery of new facts revealing that the Americans insulted the entire Japanese army" made necessary further consideration of the case.

A Japanese spokesman said the gendarmes entered the area to safeguard Lieut.-Gen. Toshizo Nishio, commander-in-chief of Japanese forces in China.

Col. DeWitt Peck, U. S. marine commander, who indicated informally that no apology would be forthcoming, said today he had asked the Japanese to explain additional violations of the agreement

Axis Will Blockade Britain, Spur War

ROME, July 9 (AP)—An Italian-German agreement for a three-fold attack on Britain was reported today by Virginio Gayda, usually authoritative Fascist editor.

The Axis partners, Gayda said, are determined:

1—To blockade the British Isles.

2—To break Britain's empire contacts.

3—To defeat her "at home, in imperial territories" and at sea.

Each Axis power has definitely assigned tasks for these goals, Gayda, editor of Il Giornale d'Italie, said.

Italy's job, he declared, is to strike at the British at four places on land and harass British shipping in the Atlantic, Mediterranean, Red sea and Indian ocean, and, above all, immobilize a large part of Britain's seapower in the Mediterranean.

On land, Gayda said, Italy is assigned to strike at Egypt from Cyrenaica, in Libya, at the British-Egyptian Sudan from East Africa, at Kenya and at British Somaliland.

Italian action against Sollum, capture of Kassala, British fort in Moyale, and bombardment of Aden and Perim were indications of Italian initiative along these lines, Gayda said.

French Officers Join British

ANKARA, July 9 (AP)—Persons returning from Syria reported today that about 6000 French officers, including the staff of Gen. Eugene Mittelhauser, had crossed the border into Palestine and joined British military forces there.

Tension was reported growing in Syria as the result of Arab disorders, a division of sentiment among French troops and expectation British forces might move in from Palestine.

Gen. Mittelhauser, commander-in-chief of France's Near Eastern armies, recently announced the cessation of hostilities in the Near East, indicating the end of collaboration with the British there.

Kin to Aid Teacher In Death Trial Plans

EDGARTOWN, July 9—Prominent members of R. Huntington Rice's family, Boston residents, rallied today to the defense of the elocution teacher, accused of the sex murder of Mrs. Clara M. Smith, 70, Dorchester widow and Christian Science reader.

While the 54-year-old man spent much of his time reading the Bible in jail here, after another session of questioning, brothers and sisters arranged to retain an attorney to help Rice in his fight to convince officials of the innocence he has so steadfastly maintained since his arrest.

Authorities themselves, headed by Dist. Atty. William C. Crossley, clothed their investigation in great secrecy after formal arraignment of Rice on murder charges.

But, it was learned that federal agents were enlisted to aid in the search of jewelry reported stolen from the elderly widow on the night she was bludgeoned to death in her bed at the Rice School of the Spoken Word, at Oak Bluff. Rice was acting head of the school.

HUNT MAILED PARCEL

After searching all Rice's belongings, officials asked assistance of postoffice inspectors on information Rice had mailed a package to New York city during the week.

At the same time, Crossley and State Police Capt. John F. Stokes awaited a report from Dr. Joseph Walker, state police chemist, on examination of Rice's clothing which were taken to Boston.

R. HUNTINGTON RICE
Denies Smith Murder

Rice, during more questioning by Crossley during the night, reiterated his innocence, and, according to jailers, appeared cheerful after a visit from his sister, Miss Mary Rice of Clark st., Brookline, who brought him the Bible.

The family indicated they would spare no expense to clear Rice of the charges.

Another visitor at the jail was his brother, Rev. Bernard Rice, head of the Westminster Presbyterian Foundation of Christian Scientists of Boston.

Rice's second brother, Phideiah, is the head of the school which Mrs. Smith had attended to improve her diction. But since his illness a year ago, Rice had been in charge.

Crossley ordered Rice's arrest after the elocution teacher, according to officials, was unable to explain satisfactorily his whereabouts on the night Mrs. Smith was found murdered.

Rice pleaded his innocence.

"Mrs. Smith was a fine old lady," he said. "I have no connection with this atrocity. My record is clean. I don't drink and I don't smoke. I am not a user or narcotics.

"'The first time I knew of Mrs. Smith's death was when my sister informed me of it the day after her body was found."

SON OF MINISTER

Rice, a native of Colorado, is a graduate of the University of Colorado. His father was a Presbyterian minister.

After his college days, he came east and took up voice training. In recent years, he has been teaching elocution in New York during the winter and at his brother's school here in the summer.

While authorities sought the victim's missing jewelry, they indicated they still held to the theory that the elderly widow was murdered during an attempted attack.

MARRIAGE OVER—According to Louella Parsons, Boston American movie columnist, the marriage of Peggy Ann Kent, daughter of film company executive, and Ernie Westmore, makeup artist, is "on the rocks." 3 Lose Lives, 4 Hurt; Confesses Spite Fire

CHICAGO, July 9 (INS)—Anger at loss of a $5-a-week janitor's job was advanced tonight by George Wagner, 30, as his motive for setting fire yesterday to an apartment building.

Three men lost their lives in the blaze and four other persons were injured, two seriously. Two city firemen suffered minor injuries.

After confessing the incendiarism, Wagner coolly lit a cigaret, cupped his chin in his hand and posed for photographers. Later he repeated the confession from the witness stand at the inquest.

Although he expressed no particular regrets at the tragedy, Wagner said he did not expect any one to die in the fire.

In the presence of his former employer, Mrs. Wilhelmina Goehring, owner of the building Wagner said he dropped a match in a paper container on the second floor, and walked to the street to watch the blaze. Mrs. Goehring had discharged him five days earlier for incompetence.

"I remembered I left some things in my room, so I went back into the building," Wagner continued. "When I got to the street again, I looked up and saw Mrs. Florence Friedler hanging onto the third floor windowsill.

"I told her firemen would be here in a few minutes, and told her not to jump."

After counseling Mrs. Friedler, 64, against jumping, Wagner again went into the building and called firemen. Mrs. Friedler suffered second and third degree burns in the interim.

The fire cost the lives of Gus Wagner, 30; Fred W. Virden, 59, and Thomas J. Fleming, 60.

Wagner was held in jail on open charges.

BEAUTIFUL, YES! AND SHE'S SON JAMES' NEW SECRETARY

The busy American executive who looks only for efficiency from his secretary well might take a tip from James Roosevelt.

For the President's son is one to combine glamor and beauty with secretarial brains and in this great America there's still no law against that.

Son James was busy in New York today after a quick trip to Boston with a mystery secretary who had reporters guessing but glowingly praising.

In fact she was such an eyeful, as she stepped aboard an airplane at the East Boston airport that they asked in unison if perhaps there wasn't some great romance.

"She's just my secretary," young Roosevelt explained. "There's no romance or anything like that."

But the President's son refused to further identify the dark-haired beauty who arrived and took his seat on the plane.

When he arrived he registered for both, giving his secretary's weight as "about 100 pounds" and his own as 235.

Roosevelt said he planned to remain in New York several days in connection with the business affairs of his Globe Motion Picture Co., soon to make its initial film.

When James and his secretary arrived in New York his mother was attending a luncheon in the airport administration building but he didn't stop.

"I don't want to intrude," he said.

Dodge Widow, Former Hello Girl, Gets $2,500,000 From Auto Estate

PONTIAC, Mich., July 9 (INS)—A settlement under which his youthful widow will receive approximately $2,500,000 from the $11,000,000 estate of the late Daniel G. Dodge was revealed to have been tentatively agreed today.

Mrs. Dodge, now 22, was a telephone operator and daughter of a Canadian tug boat captain when she married Dodge. Thirteen days after the wedding, he fell to his death from a motorboat which was speeding him to a doctor for treatment of burns received in an accident at his Manitoulin Island lodge.

The settlement, which was revealed when counsel for Mrs. Mathilda Wilson, the mother, asked permission in probate court today for Mrs. Wilson to sign it, would transfer the bulk of the estate to Dodge's three sisters and mother.

The mother, before deducting taxes, would receive nearly $5,000,000, and the sisters would receive $1,741,666 each. Before deducting taxes, the widow's share would be $2,558,666. Five per cent would go back to a $40,000,000 trust fund set up by John Dodge.

The sisters are Mrs. Wesson Seyburn, Mrs Isabel Sloane and Mrs. Frances Johnson.

The widow, who would waive further claims on the trust fund under the settlement, is Mrs. Annie Laurine McDonald Dodge. The settlement is expected to end lengthy litigation over the estate.

Chalmers Tells of Walkins Plan To See Judge in Berlandi Case

After officers of North End police station had refused to drop a larceny charge against Alfred Berlandi, Police Lieut. Harold Walkins said he would go to Chief Justice F. Delano Putnam, it was testified today in municipal court.

Lieut. Walkins is one of four defendants before Justice Putnam on charges of contempt of court in allegedly conspiring to obstruct justice.

The other defendants are Berlandi, his brother, Angelo, one of Mayor Tobin's secretaries, and Carmen Giardano of the North End, who allegedly tried to "take the rap" for Alfred in a handbag theft case.

CHALMERS TESTIFIES

Testimony today that Lieut. Walkins said he would go to Chief Justice Putnam was given by Special Office Hazen Chalmers, in charge of the handbag case, and his superior officer, Lieut. Louis DiSessa, who was acting captain at the station at the time of the theft last March.

Chalmers previously had testified that after Giordano had confessed to the handbag theft he was allowed to leave the station because police did not believe his story and thought he would change his mind and "go back to the person who sent him."

Today Chalmers testified that he allowed Giordano to leave the station on the authority of Lieut. DiSessa.

The first time he ever heard anyone say Giordano was taking the rap, Chalmers testified, was in superior court and he admitted that he might have been told by Bob Mayer, a municipal court officer.

DI SESSA CALLED

Lieut. Di Sessa, called as a witness, testified that he has known Angelo Berlandi for about four years and has gone to banquets and dances where Berlandi also attended.

Nevertheless, said the lieutenant, when Berlandi told the officer that Alfred Berlandi was innocent in the handbag case, DiSessa informed the mayoral secretary that Alfred would have to go to court.

The lieutenant said also that Lieut. Walkins called him on the telephone and asserted that Alfred Berlandi was innocent because Giordano had cleared him.

Walkins also was told Berlandi would have to go to court, and then Walkins asked if Di Sessa minded Walkins' going to see Chief Justice Putnam.

"I told him that was up to him," testified Di Sessa.

Two Held in $28,000 Theft

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP)—A night club patron's complaint that a bottle of wine and a few dances with professional hostesses cost him $28,000 resulted in the arrest of two men.

Booked on charges of grand larceny were Harry Goodman, 47, and Nicholas Lombardi, 36, owner and manager, respectively, of the Hollywood Restaurant.

Johannes Van Reekum, of New Rochelle, a paper pulp business executive, told police he drove to the restaurant early last Wednesday morning, dismissed his chauffeur and went in alone to dance.

A group of men and hostesses came to his table, he said, and he was charged $40 for a bottle of wine. Van Reekum said he paid out of a $1000 bill, displaying 28 other $1000 bank notes in his wallet as he did so.

During a few dances with hostesses he was pushed around by the entire group, he told police, addi g that when he started to leave the place his wallet was missing.

Navy Yard Urges Quick Training

Train now, men, for shipyard jobs at good pay!

So the Charlestown navy yard might well advertise today because of unusual factors in the employment situation there.

In its latest employment bulletin, the navy yard announced the yard forces within a year or two will be increased to between 2000 and 3000 men. This is a result of proposed expenditure of more than $1,000,000 for building of the ways.

But, it was emphasized, they must be skilled workmen. The yard payroll otherwise is intact.

Skilled mechanics for shipbuilding and machine work are in great demand, officials said, but such workmen are scarce.

Norma Denies She Plans to Wed Raft

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, July 9—Norma Shearer will not marry George Raft or anyone else, she told this writer in an exclusive interview today.

Mrs. George Raft

For many months, it was reported that as soon as George was able to obtain a divorce from his wife, with whom he hasn't lived for 15 years, he and Norma would wed. Today she said:

"I will not marry George or anyone else. I take marriage very seriously and, as you know, I was ideally happy with Irving Thalberg. I never expect to have such happiness again and so it would be wrong for me to marry anyone.

"I also want to make another point clear," Norma said. "The rumors that have been flying around about my advising George Raft about his screen roles, encouraging him to direct, produce or backing him in producing pictures, are completely untrue.

"I have never even read a script of George Raft's. I like him much too well as an actor to advise him to be anything else, and I think he is swell in whatever part he plays.

"I would also like to say that there has never been a rift in our friendship. We are neither disagreeing nor contemplating marriage. It so happens that I am not interested in marrying anyone and George knows it."

It is no secret that George has been trying to obtain his freedom for a long time. They separated six months after their marriage.

Norma said George had telephoned her from Chicago and that he is on his way back.

Willkie Picks Martin For G.O.P. Chairman

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, House minority leader, today was named chairman of the Republican National Committee and director of the Willkie presidential campaign.

John D. M. Hamilton, present committee chairman, was selected as executive director. He will work under Martin.

Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee, announced the appointments to a press conference after he had met with a subcommittee which the national committee authorized to make the selections.

STASSEN TO AID

Willkie also announced that Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, who was keynoter and Willkie's floor manager at the Republican convention, would head a large campaign advisory committee.

Other appointments included formal selection of Russell Davenport of New York, former managing editor of Fortune Magazine, to serve as Willkie's personal representative who will work with Martin, and the assignment of Oren Root, Jr., New York lawyer, to organization work among independent Willkie clubs.

Both Davenport and Root were associated with Willkie in those capacities during his campaign for nomination.

Besides a breakfast meeting with 32 members of the Republican National Committee, Willkie hoped to visit the capitol to talk with a group of senators interested in making a "keep out of war" campaign. The group included Senators Johnson (R.) of California, Nye (R.) of North Dakota, and Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan.

MEETS RUNNING MATE

The presidential nominee met his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, for the first time late yesterday, and afterward reported that they were in "full accord" on campaign plans.

McNary said he was "impressed with Willkie's sincerity," and expressed the belief that he would make "a great campaigner and a splendid president."

The two men attended a dinner last night for Republican members of Congress and made brief thank-you talks.

Willkie, who had said he would not speak, arose only after the diners had started the campaign shout:

"We want Willkie!"

TAFT, BRIDGES FOR HIM

Senators Vandenberg, Taft (R.), of Ohio and Bridges (R.), of New Hampshire, unsuccessful contenders for the Republican presidential nomination, pledged their support to the nominee.

Martin, acting as toastmaster, predicted the Republicans would elect a president and a House majority in November.

In the latter event, Martin likely would be elected speaker. He has been in Congress since 1925. Four years ago he was eastern director of the Republican campaign, and last month served as permanent chairman of the convention which nominated Willkie and McNary. A bachelor, he is 57 years old.

ACCEPTANCE AUG. 1

The nominee, speaking to reporters in a hotel reception room yesterday, said he wanted to spend the first week of his vacation "Just sleeping." During the second week, he said, he would begin preparation of his formal address of accepting the Republican nomination.

It is scheduled for his home town of Elwood, Ind., about Aug. 1.

The nominee reiterated that he wanted no advisors in preparing his address and added:

"I roll my own."

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Long, S. J., of Boston College, who afterward celebrated the nuptial mass.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, John A. Lynch, employe in the bridge department of the City of Boston and trainer of many championship swimming teams.

Following the wedding, a reception and breakfast were held at the Hotel Kenmore. Later the couple left for a honeymoon cruise to Jamaica, Panama and Central America.

LEADERS PRESS PLAN TO DRAFT ROOSEVELT

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9—Six days in advance of the Democratic convention at Chicago, final stages of the bandwagon movement to draft President Roosevelt were in full swing today, even though the President apparently plans to wait until next week to make his third term intentions known.

Outstanding party leaders are pleading with Mr. Roosevelt that he must run, regardless of personal preference, because, they say, only he can lead the Democrats to victory over Republican Presidential Candidate Wendell Willkie in November.

The President doesn't need a bandwagon movement to put him over. While remaining silent he has seen a great bulk of the Chicago delegates pledged to him regardless, and his nomination on the first ballot is assured unless he positively says no.

State leaders, however, want to make it by acclamation. In addition to the national party interests they honestly are selfishly thinking of their state and local tickets, election of which is vitally important to them. They want Mr. Roosevelt's name on the top of the ballot.

The impression was growing in New Deal circles that the President, after the Chicago convention has assembled, will send the delegates this word: That, personally, he yearns to retire to his Hyde Park acres after eight hard years—but that, in view of the turbulent international situation, he will reluctantly heed the call if an overwhelming majority of his party so demands.

Roosevelt 3d Term Plans Worry Rivals

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP) — Speculation over President Roosevelt's third-term intentions increased today among early arrivals for the Democratic national convention as they awaited the coming of Postmaster General Farley—who knows the big secret but won't tell.

Farley, chairman of the party's national committee, learned the secret from Mr. Roosevelt Sunday. He left New York for Chicago last night without giving a hint.

Meanwhile, preparations for the convention opening Monday went forward. Activity at national headquarters quickened. Ann and Betty Farley, daughters of the national chairman, were among those at work there.

GARNER, WHEELER BUSY

At Chicago Stadium workmen were completing construction of the speakers' platform, press sections and other facilities for the political conclave. The huge indoor arena was the scene of President Roosevelt's nomination in 1932.

Headquarters were opened in loop hotels by supporters of Vice President John N. Garner of Texas, and Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. Both groups insisted their choice for the nomination had an excellent chance, provided Mr. Roosevelt doesn't run.

E. B. Germany of Dallas, Tex., co-chairman of the Garner-for-President committee, reiterated his belief President Roosevelt would neither seek nor accept the nomination.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

"We have assumed from the beginning that Mr. Roosevelt will not accept the nomination and will not be a candidate for a third term," he said.

Headquarters for Senator Wheeler were opened by J. Burke Clements of Helena, Mont. He said Wheeler's candidacy would be pushed aggressively. Wheeler has announced that his name would go before the convention regardless of the President's action.

Tentative plans call for a meeting of the committee on arrangements Thursday morning and a final meeting of the present national committee Friday.

SHOWERS THREAT TO HEAT'S RECORD

Again today the mercury headed uphill, ambitious for a new heat record for this season after setting up the record yesterday at 90.1 degrees.

There were indications, however, that gathering clouds and possible showers might defeat this purpose.

From a comfortable 67 degrees at 5 a. m., lowest reading during the night, the temperature rose steadily until it hit 79 at 9:30 a. m., and then it continued to advance in the manner of yesterday.

The bright skies and trace of humidity gave thousands of Greater Boston residents another opportunity to relax at the city's numerous beaches and resorts. Vacationists filled trains and buses, highways were crowded with automobiles.

Mishaps on the water cost two lives. The sole Massachusetts fatality occurred in Clinton, where Leami Field, 35, of Worceser, father of three, was seized by a cramp in South Meadow Pond and sank from sight.

At Boothbay Harbor, Me., Philip McDougall, 19, sacrificed his life for those of a young brother and sister, Margaret Brewer, 15, and Stillman Brewer, 12, when the trio's skiff capsized.

He supported the pair, who could not swim, until help came, then collapsed from weakness and disappeared in the water. Coast guards today continued their search for the youth's body.

Tragedy was averted in Saugus when Alfred Diotte plunged fully clothed into the Saugus river to rescue Richard Fritz, 15, whose legs had become snared by eel grass. The boy was revived by Saugus police and firemen after Diotte dragged him to shore.

5 Are Injured As Truck Upsets

Five persons, including three young women, were injured today when a truck overturned on the Concord road in West Bedford.

Police said the accident was caused by a rear tire blowout.

The victims, all treated at the Emerson Hospital, Concord, included William A. Wilkey, 22, of Orange, recorded by police as operator of the truck; Charles Johnson, 20, of Athol; Miss Gertrude Kennedy, 21, of Harvard st., Allston; Miss Ethel Leydon, 26, of Blue Hill ave., Roxbury, and Miss Nancy Palmer, 25, of Fuller st., Dorchester. All suffered cuts and bruises.

Koussevitzky's Dream Finally Comes True

STOCKBRIDGE, July 9 (AP) —With the formal opening of the Berkshire music center, a 27-year-old dream of Serge Koussevitzky's became an actuality.

Tanglewood, the magnificient estate given the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 1937 by Mrs. Gorham Brooks, is now the seat of a school of music comparable with the annual Berkshire Symphonic Festival, which next month on the same grounds again will demonstrate how it gained its reputation as probably the best prepared summer music festival in the world.

The dream began in 1913-1914, Dr. Koussevitzky explained to an audience of a thousand in the flat iron shaped music shed, when he organized what he felt would become one of the great schools of music in a residential district of Moscow.

But the war, and then the Russian Revolution came, and after that he came to America as conductor of the Boston Symphony. So it was not until 1929 that he tried again; this time in White Plains, N. Y.

The depression checked off that attempt. Now, in another war year, the center is an actuality due to efforts of the board of trustees and the Boston Symphony, the Berkshire Symphonic festival, and a faculty of Americans and Europeans which includes such names as Paul Hindemith, Aaron Copland, Olin Downes, Herbert Gray, Abram Chasins and others —not to mention all the principals of the Boston Symphony.

The school accepted half the applicants, George E. Judd, manager of the symphony, said. Of the 340 chosen, a third are professors also studying definitely for musical careers, and the remainder is made up of amateurs who want to spend six weeks in contact with great music.

The last three weeks of the school overlap the three weeks of the Berkshire Symphonic Festival, the first program of which is set for August 1.

Opening exercises included talks by Ernest B. Dane, Dr. Koussevitzky, Reginald C. Foster and Downes.

HOUSE SEEN SURE TO O.K. HATCH BILL

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP) —Three changes in the Senate-approved Hatch anti-politics bill were proposed today by Rep. Dempsey (D.), of New Mexico, one of its sponsors, just before it was called up for House debate.

Dempsey predicted passage by a three-fourths majority, while Rep. Hobbs (D.) of Alabama, a leading opponent, said here was "no doubt" the bill would pass. The vote may come tomorrow or Thursday.

The legislation's main provision forbids political activity by state or local employes if their work is "in connection with" a federally-financed project. It is a companion to a statute also fathered by Sen. Hatch (D.) of New Mexico, which forbids political activity by federal employes.

Terming the bill "excellent as a whole," Dempsey said he would seek the following changes in its provisions:

1—Make the law effective as soon as the President signs it, instead of waiting until Oct. 1, 1940, the date originally proposed.

2—Eliminate jury trials for employes dismissed for political activity, but permit such dismissals to be carried to appellate courts.

3—Narrow restrictions forbidding the purchase of advertising when the proceeds would go to finance a candidate or a campaign.

Dempsey said he opposed the jury-trial provision on the ground that it would delay final disposition of cases and "clog the courts."

Discussing the prohibition against advertising, he asserted that although it was aimed at publications like the Democratic 1936 "Campaign Book," it might affect newspaper advertising. He said he favored a modification which would apply only in cases of unreasonable or unusually high advertising rates.

U. S. NABS NAZI AGENT

LOS ANGELES, July 9 (AP)—Acting U. S. Atty. William Palmer says he "has plenty of new material" to place before the federal grand jury tomorrow in seeking the indictment of Dr. Herbert Hoehne, 29, held on charges of failing to register as a German agent.

Meanwhile, Palmer indicated he is asking the advice of his superiors in Washington on whether to take action against German Consul General Fritz Wiedemann and Chancellor Herman Loeper of the San Francisco German consulate.

The government submitted a letter of introduction for Hoehne, signed by Loeper, saying that he "is traveling from San Francisco to Buenos Aires, Argentine, by airplane, taking along three small packages containing diplmatic mail from the foreign office in Berlin, Germany, to the German legations in Mexico, Panama and Guatemala."

Head said that "when the German consular officer at San Francisco delivered mail to Hoehne, not an accredited agent, he stepped outside the regular diplomatic procedure and became an ordinary person, subject to the law."

Federal sources said later that Hoehne's presence in the Americas paralleled the arrival and arrest of Emil Wolff three days ago at Balboa, C. Z., they said Wolff managed to toss over the ship's side a 50-pound trunk which was recovered and found to contain documents "in German giving detailed plans for 'action' in Venezuela, Panama and other Latin-American countries—particularly with reference to Dutch possessions.

Wiedemann, in San Francisco, at first denied knowing Hoehne but later admitted:

"This consulate had several letters and three small packages destined for German consulates in Latin America, which we asked Hoehne to deliver for us.

"The packages contained code material not known to me, and had been forwarded to my office for relay to their destination from the German Foreign Office in Berlin."

Washington Backs Arrest of Nazi Agent

WASHINGTON, July 9 (INS)—The arrest and arraignment in Los Angeles of Dr. Herbert H. Hoehne, Nazi agent, were carried out with the full knowledge of—and probably upon instructions from—the State and Justice departments, it was learned reliably today.

The State Department is keeping in close touch with federal officers in Los Angeles and San Francisco about the case, which may result in the indictment of Fritz Wiedemann, German consul general on the west coast and close personal friend of Adolf Hitler.

Hoehne, according to the U. S. commissioner in Los Angeles, was acting as a diplomatic courier carrying secret dispatches from the United States to South America without registering with the State Department as a German agent. Federal law requires the registration of all agents in this country who act for foreign principals.

Nazis, Italy Move For Balkans' Peace

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, July 9—German and Italian foreign ministers Von Ribbentrop and Ciano will renew the axis campaign for "peaceful regulation" of southeastern Europe, it was disclosed today.

Von Ribbentrop and Count Ciano will meet Hungarian Premier Count Paul Teleki and Foreign Minister Count Stephen Csaky tomorrow "somewhere in the south" in an effort to speed solution of the Balkan situation.

Von Ribbentrop left Berlin for the secret rendezvous after receiving Japanese diplomats yesterday and Ciano will proceed to the meeting from the western front, where he is touring the Maginot line and Verdun battlefields.

Hitler also will be temporarily absent from Berlin.

Despite rumors, the soundest reports indicated the Russians have remained within the Bessarabian and northern Bukovinian territories ceded to Russia and that relations between Russia and Rumania remain quiet.

German sources indicated Rumania is now aware that Germany and Italy regard both Bulgarian and Hungarian territorial claims against her as ready for settlement. Hungary seeks return of Transylvania and Bulgaria claims Southern Dobruja.

Ribbentrop and Ciano Map Europe Carving

ROME, July 9 (AP)—An Italian government source indicated today that German and Italian leaders would work out preliminary plans for the future setup of Europe during the current visit of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano to Germany.

He explained that the Germans and Italians were "beginning to survey the horizon to see what should be done in the future" toward settling the continent's political problems.

Carol Battles to Save Kingdom From Nazis

BUCHAREST, July 9 (AP)—The Rumanian cabinet mobilized farm and forest workers today to strengthen the nation for defense while King Carol II labored to prevent the government from falling into the hands of the pro-German, anti-Semitic Iron Guard.

Several million women, as well as boys and men to old for active military service, were affected by a cabinet decree conscripting all available labor to harvest the nation's crops and safeguard food supplies.

The cabinet also was reported to have discussed means of "solving the Jewish problem," but details were not immediately made public.

Meanwhile, the possibility British companies might transfer their Rumanian oil interests to Soviet Russia was discussed in diplomatic quarters.

It is estimated $100,000,000 of British capital is invested in this country's oil industry. Rather than let these holdings fall under German control through future developments the British are believed to be willing to transfer them to the strong hands of Moscow.

U. S. Ships Move TNT to Britain

NEW ORLEANS, July 9 (AP)—A new safety measure went into effect today as reports circulated in shipping circles that an additional 10,000,000 pounds of high explosives between Russia and Rumania remain quiet.

Capt. J. L. Ahern of the Coast Guard, newly named captain of the port under an emergency Presidential decree, said all explosives would have to be loaded at an anchorage more than a dozen miles down the Mississippi river from the city proper.

A shipment of 8,500,000 pounds of TNT, released from the government arsenal at Fort Wingate, New Mexico, passed through here in great secrecy more than a week ago, and was shipped to Great Britain.

Submarine Net Placed at Canal

BALBOA, C. Z., July 9 (INS)—Large "live" mine fields, shifted frequently to prevent general knowledge of their location, have been placed at the Atlantic and Pacific entrances to the Panama canal, it was revealed today.

So frequently are the mine fields shifted that the pilot detail of the canal marine division broadcasts four times daily the exact courses to be followed by incoming ships to avoid the mines.

In addition, it was learned, a submarine net has been added to the mine fields as a result of reports several days ago that an unidentified foreign submarine was sighted off Balboa.

HEARINGS ON DRAFT PUT OVER

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—The Senate military committee decided today to defer hearings on the Burke-Wadsworth military training bill until final Senate action on the nomoiation of Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox to head the War and Navy departments.

Reliable sources said, however, that when the army's representatives did appear, they would approve the principle of compulsory military training, disagreeing only with details set out in the bill.

Leaders of various organizations whic hadvocate civilian training were on the witness list of a House committee considering the measure.

PAY DISAGREEMENT

One point on which army officials were said to disagree with the Burke-Wadsworth bill was the $5-a-month pay rate it fixes for men selected for training. The high command was reported favoring instead the $21 basic pay of army privates.

There were indications, meanwhile, that President Roosevelt was about ready to send Congress his new defense recommendations, said to involve $5,000,000,000. A delay in final navy estimates may postpone the special message until tomorrow.

Naval affairs took a large share of attention yesterday with unheralded arrival here of Admiral J. O. Richardson, commander of the fleet, and Senate committee action on the House-approved "two-ocean" navy bill.

FLEET MATTERS DISCUSSED

Admiral Richardson, who made a secret 5500-mile trip from Hawaii to report to President Roosevelt said merely that he had discussed "routine fleet matters."

Richardson professed no knowledge of any pending shift of the fleet from its present base in mid-Pacific, but this did not stop conjecture that the "routine matters" might have included a discussion on this subject.

JAPS POISE FOR BLOW AT BRITISH

TOKYO, July 9 (AP)—Informed quarters asserted today Japan is prepared to take military action against the British Crown Colony of Hongkong if Great Britain continues refusal to close the Burma Route of aid to China.

These sources said Japanese plans are complete and merely await London's reply to a request for reconsideration of the refusal.

They pointed to the removal of women and children from Hongkong as an indication of the seriousness with which Britain views the situation.

The Japanese Cabinet decided today to send new representations to Britian and Domei, Japanese news agency, said the ministers expressed "strong opinions" in their meeting.

Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita told British Ambassador Sir Robert Craigie the British reply was unsatisfactory and urged him to advise London to reconsider. A foreign office communique said Sir Robert had agreed to transmit Arita's request.

The British refusal was not entirely unexpected here, but some compromise had been expected and the shock to the Japanese was increased by the strong contrast with the French attitude.

PRESS ATTACKS U. S.

France readily agreed to permit Japanese inspectors to supervise rail shipments through Indo-China into China to prevent military supplies from reaching the Chinese forces

The Japanese press was unanimous in declaring that "an understanding" with the United States and Soviet Russia preceded the British reply and newspapers repeated previous charges that the United States fleet is acting as Britain's "watchdog in the Pacific."

The press at the same time reported Japan's roving diplomat, Naotake Sato, in conferences with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop had received indications Germany would back Japan in any action against Britain in the Far East.

Japan Bitter Over 'Insult'

He declared Japanese attempted to drive two tanks into the zone Sunday but were stopped by a marine patrol and that Japanese drove 125 motor trucks into the area yesterday.

Col. Peck said he also had pointed out to Miura the "discourtesy" of the Japanese in failing to inform the Americans of Nishio's entrance into the American sector Sunday.

Jap Envoys Confer With Von Ribbentrop

BERLIN, July 9 (INS)—German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop has received former Foreign Minister Sato of Japan and Japanese Ambassador Kurusu, it was announced today.

In Tokyo, the newspaper Nichi said Von Ribbentrop and the Japanese diplomats discussed the effect of the new European situation upon the Far East and the future of German-Japanese co-operation.—Editor's Note.

were dropped on one southeastern town in England were handled quickly by local air raid precaution services."

But British aviation circles made it clear Royal Air Force planes were striking back at Germany with mighty blows.

They said some of the greatest raids of any 24-hour period in the entire war were carried out by the R. A. F. over the week-end. These attacks penetrated deep into Germany, perhaps as far as Berlin, and from German-occupied Boulogne on the French channel coast north along the entire coastline.

BOMBERS PIERCE GERMANY

Soaring 300 miles into central Germany, it was claimed, the British bombers successfully attacked vital military objectives, dropping bombs which left behind a trail of fires.

Air circles acknowledged the importance of these raids, "not only in the number of planes used and bombs dropped, but in the strategic damage known to have been inflicted."

"Undoubtedly," they said, "it was a red-letter week-end for the R. A. F."

A British radio broadcast picked up by the Columbia Broadcasting System in New York said the Bremen, Karlsruhe and Hamburg radio stations went silent shortly after midnight and that the Stuttgart radio "also stopped suddenly."—Editor's Note.

The London Daily Telegraph said German losses in the air since the war began amounted to 4000 planes, not including aircraft lost in the Polish campaign, but including 115 lost through yesterday in attacks against England.

Britain's share of victories over German planes amounted to 2500 the paper said.

A German (DNB) dispatch from Geneva stated British planes from an aircraft carrier again bombed the French naval base at Oran, Algeria. The British planes were fired on by French anti-aircraft batteries, the report said, and it was reported at least two British planes were shot down.

BRITISH JET SISTER SHIP

A German radio broadcast picked up in New York by NBC said all French warships lying off Casablanca have sailed into the Atlantic for operations against the British merchant marine.—Editor's Note.

The Richelieu, one of the newest of French capital ships, had not been commissioned for service when it was removed from its French base during the German invasion.

Its sister-ship, the Jean Bart, is in British hands, having been towed to a British port from Brest.

The British admiralty also announced the British destroyer Whirlwind had been torpedoed and sunk. Some survivors were rescued, the communique said.

U-Boats Sink Ships, Planes Blast Plants

BERLIN, July 9 (AP)—Heavy blows to British shipping, including the sinking of the destroyer Whirlwind and several armed merchant ships, were credited to German submarines today by the Nazi high command.

The air force, it said, raided port facilities, airports, armament factories and ships in England. Listed as hit were:

Shipyards at Devonport.

Oil tanks at Ipswich and elsewhere.

Explosive plants at Harwich.

Chemical plants in Billingham.

A cruiser, a destroyer and five merchantmen in the North sea.

CLAIM 12 PLANES DOWN

In addition, DNB, official German news agency, reported all of 12 British bombing planes attacking the German-held airport of Stavanger-Sola on the Norwegian coast were shot down, 11 by German planes and one by anti-aircraft fire.

The agency said there were no German losses. The British planes, all of the Bristol-Blenheim type, were said to have dropped only a few bombs which did insignificant damage.

These claims were not supported in the official high command communique.—Editor's note.

Following is the text of the German communique:

German submarines again inflicted heavy losses on the enemy.

Lieut.-Capt. Hans Gerritt von Stockhausen sank 55,000 registered tons of enemy merchant shipping space with his U-boat.

Another submarine destroyed the British destroyer Whirlwind and several armed merchant ships, among which was a British naval tanker of 11,660 tons.

ONE U-BOATS FEAT

The success of one submarine, which was reported in the communique of June 23 to have sunk 34,000 tons, was increased to 49,311 tons, as Lieut.-Comdr. Knorr reported on the return of his vessel.

Speedboats during renewed operations against the south coast of England sank a British patrol vessel.

The air force attacked port facilities, oil tanks, air ports as well as plants of the armaments industry in England and ships.

Shipyards at Devonport were hit and severely damaged, also oil tanks at Ipswich, Canvey Island, Thames Haven and Tilbury, explosive plants at Harwich, chemical plants at Billingham.

Furthermore, in the English Channel and North sea, one cruiser, one destroyer and five merchantmen were hit and damaged.

Several airplanes were destroyed on the ground at one airport.

Attacks of enemy planes the night of July 7-8 on Holland and Belgium were without success. During the night of July 8-9 enemy flights over northern and western Germany caused some damage to houses and killed a number of persons.

The enemy's total losses yesterday were 11 planes. Six were bagged in air fights, five destroyed on the ground. Five German planes are missing.

War Orphans Arrive, Speed Home Offers

Arrival of the first contingents of European refugee children has stimulated fresh interest in the plight of those left behind to face the terrors of war.

With death raining from the skies over Britain, it becomes more imperative with each passing day that evacuation plans be speeded. Only through the voluntary offers of American homes can plans be made to remove these war-saddened children to safety.

New Englanders have responded with a rush to the pleas of anguished British parents for sanctuary for their boys and girls. However, hundreds remain to be cared for, and the Editor of the American is asking for additional adoption or custody offers.

MORE LETTERS POUR IN

Typical of the letters received in today's mail are these excerpts:

AUBURN, Me.—"We have been married for many years and have no children. My husband and I would like to adopt a war baby. We would like to get a little French girl from one to two years old. We assure you that the child would have the happy life that her own parents would want her to have."

SPRINGFIELD—"I read your article on the war orphans and it impressed me deeply. Our family would love to adopt a war orphan. I hope and pray with all my heart that you can get one for us.

"We can provide a good substantial home. We would like a girl, it does not matter if she is English, French, Polish or Belgian. We have five children, the oldest is 19 and the youngest is almost 10."

LONG FOR DAUGHTER

WARE—"We have often longed for a small girl in our home to bring up as a sister to our own three boys. Having read your articles on the war orphans we would be glad to have one of them for our own. We are of English descent and naturally would love an English child. But we would welcome one of any nationality."

LAWRENCE — "Just a few words to ask you for a child. We have been married five years and have no children. We love them and decided to write you for a French or Belgian little girl under five years of age. We could like to keep her permanently if possible."

NEW BEDFORD — "We are more than willing to open our home to a war orphan. We would like a baby boy not older than a year and a half and not younger than one year to replace our own son who died in March. This child must not have a father or mother. Nationality is immaterial. Please hurry and bring this baby to us."

DREAMS COME TRUE

MILTON—"If you could make it possible for us to adopt a little girl our hapiness would be complete. We have been married six years and have no children. We have a lovely home in good surroundings with a large front yard. It is a perfect place for little ones. We would like a little French or Dutch girl not over two or three. We could give her every advantage. Please make our dream come true."

NEWPORT, R. I.—"Please put my letter with the others offering to take a little one. I'm in a position to offer food, shelter, clothing and above all love which is needed now more than ever. I would like a little girl between six months and a year. I would keep her for the duration of the war or adopt her. Please believe me I would care for her and love her as her own mother would."

ALLERTON—"I would like to have an orphan for adoption. I am English born so I really prefer a little girl from England. If I can't have an English child I would like one from an invaded country as I know there must be hundreds of children looking for a good home where they can try and forget the horrors they have experienced. I have a daughter 17, who graduated from high school in June."

ROXBURY—"I have read your articles on war orphans and both my husband and myself are interested in adopting one of the little unfortunates from either Norway or France. We have a boy now and we are young and capable of caring for two. The child would receive the same treatment and love as our own."

COBLENTZ NEW HEAD OF CALL-BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9 — Appointment of Edmond B. Coblentz as publisher of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin was announced yesterday—and for the quiet-spoken man who has been "Cobbie" throughout his 40 years with the Hearst organization the event is a homecoming.

For "Cobbie" is a native of San Francisco, born here and reared in Santa Maria. He brings to his new task a background not only of wide newspaper executive experience, but a background which is essentially San Franciscan.

His first newspaper job was as a cub reporter on the San Francisco Examiner in 1900. After serving his office apprenticeship, Coblentz was assigned to the waterfront, which he covered efficiently for several years.

PUBLISHER IN 1925

He was appointed assistant city editor of the Examiner, and in 1907 became city editor. After six years as boss of the Examiner's city room he was transferred, as managing editor, to the newspaper he now returns to as a publisher. At that time it was the Call-Post.

Coblentz returned to the Examiner in 1915 to climb the various rungs until, in 1925, he became publisher.

Two years later he was called to New York as editor of the American. From that post he was appointed a member of the board of directors of the Hearst chain of newspapers, and supervising editor for all Hearst morning newspapers

13 YEARS IN NEW YORK

In these various capacities Coblentz has spent the last 13 years with his headquarters in New York, but now he has returned to San Francisco.

And the Call-Bulletin has prepared a magnificent homecoming welcome for "Cobbie" — a streamlined, resplendent new building at Fifth and Howard sts. into which he will move his staff by fall.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Old Topper Ale Sales Heavy

Enthusiastic response to the Handy Beer and Wine Company's newest product on the market, Old Topper Ale, was reported today by the distributing firm.

"It's got what it takes" is the Old Topper Ale slogan, and the Handy Company claim the public has been quick in appreciating the merits of this finely brewed malt beverage.

Old Topper Ale is manufactured by the Rochester Brewing Company of Rochester, N. Y.

Phenomenal sales in this area have been assisted by Handy Beer and Wine Company advertising in the Boston Record-American, according to officials of the firm.

U. S. Admits 160 New Citizens

Welcoming the 160 new American citizens today in federal court, Judge Francis J. W. Ford warned them that "domestic enemies of our government may be more dangerous than armed invaders."

Shortly after the 160 had taken the oath of allegiance, they received small American flags to wear on their lapels from members of the American Legion.

Judge Ford added:

"The ceremony which you are going through this morning is not an idle one—it is important to you.

"Domestic enemies as well as foreign would tear down the structure of this government. You must be alert and look to your government and Congress for guidance."

NEW HELP FOR FOLKS OVER 40

Who "Feel Old" From Need of Iron & Vitamin B1

A large number of people over 40 do not get enough iron to make red blood, and they also fail to get enough vital Vitamin B1.

As a result, these folks are in poor health. They have too little energy or appetite. They sleep restlessly and often develop certain types of nervousness and neuritis. Their shortage of Vitamin B1 indirectly may affect the glands, stomach, intestines and other organs.

A shortage of iron and Vitamin B1 often causes the following—
Low vitality
Easily tires
Pale skin
Pale cheeks
Restless sleep
Certain nervous disorders, neuritis
Lack of pep
Short breath
Loss of appetite
ENRICH contains iron & Vitamin B1. Try ENRICH.

Men and women over 40 can now obtain extra iron and extra Vitamin B1 by taking delicious "ENRICH," a new dietband which is helping thousands who formerly felt played out and tired from insufficient iron and Vitamin B1. Just to show you how much iron and Vitamin B1 is in ENRICH read this:—

You would have to eat 2½ pounds of beefsteak or 7 lbs. of spinach every day to get the same amount of iron daily as in ONE OUNCE OF ENRICH. And besides you would have to eat ½ pound baker's bread every day to get the same Vitamin B1 now obtained daily from ENRICH.

ENRICH tastes good and often produces an amazing improvement in a short time. Costs but a few cents a day! Contains no alcohol or stimulant drugs. Does not blacken teeth. Gives satisfaction or money refunded.

Helen Ford in Cambridge Hit

Cambridge Summer Theater last night inaugurated its July-August season at Cambridge's Brattle Hall with "Tonight or Never," Lili Harvey's tongue-in-cheek comedy starring Helen Ford in the role Helen Gahagan originated on Broadway.

The musical comedy star of "Helen of Troy, New York," "Dearest Enemy," "Miss Gulliver's Travels," "Peggy Ann," "The Church Mouse" and last season's "Great Lady" was warmly welcomed by local playgoers in the many-sided role of prima donna Nella Vaga whose off-stage life is as uneventful as a Grand Hotel occupant.

Her lament is that nobody ever falls in love with her except in the script, that her engagement to the pompous opera manager has won her the unflattering sobriquet, "the eternal fiancee" and that altogether life is as stale as yesterday's headliner.

And then along comes the unknown gentleman, played by Stephen Courtleigh, handsome and talented young actor who is really quite well and favorably known to theater audiences and whose father was the distinguished stage star, William Courtleigh.

After tempting the lonely and hitherto untempted La Vaga beyond her power to resist, the handsome stranger reveals himself as the Metropolitan Opera Company's talent scout intent on getting her signature on a professional as well as a marriage contract and not the marchesa-hired gigolo she has assumed him to be.

Miss Ford goes up and down the scales of her highly temperamental role with the ease and vitality of a youthful Mary Garden. She has inspiring co-operation from young Courtleigh, who gives an excellent performance. He has an unmistakable charm and ease that presage a continuance of the Courtleigh tradition in the theater.

Ira Ari, who trained in Helsinki's National Theater, makes an auspicious American debut in a brief portrayal. Ralph Moorehouse's spade-calling accompanist and Emily Rose' marchesa are competently handled.

Cambridge Summer Theater opens an eight-week season under the co-management of Miriam Batista, well-known actress, John Huntington, identified with the theater in an acting and writing capacity for many years, and Lee Falk, Hearst syndicate cartoonist. Miss Battista will be featured in next week's offering, "The Good Fairy," Ferenc Molnar's comedy starring Walter Slezak.

Hollywood Notes

-:- By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 9 David Selznick offered Warners $75,000 for "King's Row," Henry Bellaman's novel, which wouldn't have been a bad profit, since they only paid $35,000.

It was refused because, in my opinion, it's one of the best books of the year. I do hope no mistake will be made in casting.

I heard over the week-end that James Cagney had been cast for the dashing, dualistic young doctor. It would be a misfit. He could play the other male lead, Drake—the dynamic lad who lost his legs though the machiavellian revenge of the town doctor who hated him because he loved the M. D.'s daughter.

John Garfield won't get his long expressed wish to play the George Gershwin role in the biography of the famed composer for Warners have other plans. One of these include "East of the River" by John Fante, who wrote "Spring Is Here —Bandini," a story of New York's East Side with a "dead end" atmosphere.

Musico Night At Paramount

Cash awards are to be distributed tomorrow night from the Paramount stage to last week's winners of the Musico radio show, broadcast every Wednesday night at 9:30.

Tomorrow night's broadcast, the second in the series, will be presented with Charles Hector and the Musico Orchestra, Ken Ovenden, Lou Sargent, and the entire company of radio favorites in full view of the Paramount Theater audience.

Crosby, Lamour Hits for Bowdoin

Bing Crosby co-starring with youthful Gloria Jean in Universal's "If I Had My Way," and "Typhoon," with the sarong-draped Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston braving a tropical hurricane and other dangers with comic Lynne Overman, take over Bowdoin screen starting tomorrow.

DAVIS-BOYER DRAMATIC CLASSIC COMES TO MET FRIDAY

AT MET FRIDAY—Bette Davis and Charles Boyer are the principals in one of the most sensational murder trials in history in "All This, and Heaven Too," coming Friday to the Metropolitan.

Rachel Field's Novel Filmed

"All This, and Heaven Too," Warner Brothers' picturization of Rachel Field's enormously popular biographical novel, co-stars Boston's own Bette Davis and the French star, Charles Boyer, two of the screen's finest dramatic stars, in one of the screen's most dramatic stories.

The picture comes to the Metropolitan Theater on Friday in company with "Pop Always Pays," an RKO radio comedy with Leon Errol, Walter Catlett, Dennis O'Keefe and Marjorie Gateson.

Miss Davis and Boyer are the principals in one of the most sensational murder trials of all time, a scandal that held the interest of two continents, helped a French king from his throne.

It is the story of Miss Field's own great-aunt from the time she, a young girl with a past somewhat shrouded in mystery, left temporary refuge in England to return to France, her birthplace. There she became governess in the household of the Duc de Praslin, royalist close to King Louis Phillipe, in those years prior to his, the Duc's suicidal death in 1847. His death ended but did not completely solve the famous Praslin murder mystery. In that murder the Duc's own wife, the neurotic, wildly passionate Corsican wife was the victim.

Casey Robinson's screen play of "All This, and Heaven Too," omits much of the latter part of Rachel Field's remarkable story; that part which covers Henriette's comparatively quiet, sheltered life from 1849 to her death in 1875, a peaceful quarter century in which she was the wife of the Rev. Henry Martyn Field, sister-in-law of the Cyrus Field who laid the Atlantic cable.

The Davis-Boyer starring picture, which Anatole Litvak directed, covers only those nine intensely dramatic years from 1841 to 1849, which marked Henriette Desportes' stay in the Pas Praslin household as governess to four children who loved her more deeply than they loved their own strange mother up through the murder trial in which she was tragically involved, to her arrival in New York following her exoneration.

Marriage Agency Racket Exposed

"Mad Youth," a film expose of the far flung matrimonial agency racket that pulls no punches, is now showing on Beacon screen.

It features Betty Compson Mary Ainslee and Willy Costello as well as the national jitterbug champions.

The co-feature "Young in Heart," stars Paulette Goddard, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Janet Gaynor.

Latest 'round-the-world newsreels and selected short subjects complete the screen program.

'Saturday's Children' Coming to Olympia

"Saturday's Children," featuring John Garfield, Ann Shirley, Claude Rains and Dennie Moore in the screen version of the Maxwell Anderson drama and "Forty Little Mothers," starring Eddie Cantor with Rita Johnson and Bonita Granville, make up the Washington St. Olympia screen bill for the week starting tomorrow.

MARY AINSLEE co-stars with Betty Compson in "Mad Youth," an expose of the matrimonial agency racket now on the Beacon's screen.

Louella O. Parsons' Hollywood column gives you complete coverage of the movie capital's activities.

EXPERT ON INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS
U. S. Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy

IF THE DEMOCRATIC national convention should particularly desire a presidential nominee with intimate and expert knowledge of international affairs, it will do well not to overlook Joseph P. Kennedy.

If any American knows the inside story of the current European tragedy, it is Mr. Kennedy.

As ambassador to Great Britain, he has been "RIGHT UP UNDER THE GUN" throughout the war and all its contributing events.

Better even, and probably better by far, than Mr. Roosevelt, he knows what has happened in Europe and what is likely to happen.

One vital thing about the war, for instance, that Mr. Kennedy seems to understand infinitely better than Mr. Roosevelt is the necessity for keeping America out of it.

When Ambassador Kennedy was in the United States briefly last December, he told International News Service Writer Inez Robb that the purpose of his visit was to do all he could "to keep America out of the current European War."

That, he told Miss Robb, was the "greatest service" any American could do his country.

AGAIN HOME briefly in February, Mr. Kennedy was even more firm in his conviction that the United States should keep out of the war, saying:

"There are NO JUSTIFIABLE CIRCUMSTANCES for America's entry into the current European war.

"I was convinced of this when I came back to America for the holidays, and I am just as certain of it now."

Contrast that with what certain New Deal spokesmen were saying at the time and are still saying, that in SOME circumstances we might have to make the war our war, and in SOME circumstances we might have to intervene, or if the war gets worse, or goes the wrong way, or any one of many other things happen we should not stay out.

But Mr. Kennedy, who had been closer to the war than any other American, said without equivocation that none of these circumstances and in fact NO CIRCUMSTANCES AT ALL would ever justify our entry into the war.

If Mr. Kennedy should be nominated for the presidency by the Democratic party, he would undoubtedly continue to be very plain spoken and continue to do everything possible to keep America out of war and would insist that the United States attend to its own American affairs—which are numerous and important and of great magnitude.

Of course, some of our very narrow-minded and short sighted people might remember that Mr. Kennedy is a Catholic.

But as Mr. William Randolph Hearst said in his column, "In the News," on March 12:

"That is not a cause for opposition, but for congratulation and support.

"In these days of Atheism, Anarchism and Godless despotism, sincere religionists are very deeply needed by every stable state in any political capacity, and the more important the office the better."

"WHAT MORE SINCERE religionist is there than your devoted Catholic? 'America has never had a Catholic President.' That is so, and perhaps that is one reason we could well have one NOW."

Since Mr. Kennedy is so very obviously and exceptionally experienced in business, in domestic affairs and in international diplomacy, the Democratic party should be very proud of him, and the New Deal should be very grateful to him.

Why should not the Democratic National Convention consider him for the highest honor it is able to confer, and for the highest office within the gift of the American people—for which he is eminently qualified if the people choose him for it, or have an opportunity to do so?

WE did not wave good-bye,
I did not want to die
He did not meet another lass
Nor I another lad.
Happy we saw the hours pass
And O, what fun we had!
I did not write some pretty verse,
He did not leave me flat.
You poets mournful as a hearse,
What do you think of that?
—MRS. ANON, Jr.

Do not know author of above Wish I did. She sounds to be an interesting person.

THOMAS DEWEY is reported resigning as district attorney of New York so he can go into private practice and "provide for his financial future." As you know Mr. Dewey is getting pretty old, now being thirty-eight. And he only gets $20,000 a year as district attorney of New York . . . King Victor Emmanuel of Italy is 5 ft. 3 in. tall and his wife, Queen Elena, is nearly six feet tall. Mussolini is 5 ft. 6 in. tall, but wears high heeled shoes when he makes speeches.

FANCY SET of statistics says average American woman yearly buys four dresses, two coats, four hats, four pairs of shoes and sixty dollars' worth of other articles of clothing. Does this check up with your expenditures, lady? I thought the average American woman spent at least sixty dollars in six months for stockings alone.

THE GENTLEMAN whom I saw walking with Julie Haydon, bravely trying to keep in step, is George Jean Nathan, dean of drama critics. Julie, unquestionably as a demonstration of her personal Americanism, was wearing a red, white and blue outfit . . . Mitzi Green, comedienne, is a big girl now and goes around with Art Jarrett, the band leader, who was once married to Eleanor Holm . . . Bill Terry, manager of the Giants, is paid a salary of $40,000 a year. Have you ever given thought to the fact that the New York Giants have had only two managers in nearly forty years? In the same period Brooklyn has had at least twenty.

IN 1915, Mussolini, in print, described the Germans as "a barbarous tribe of flat feet" . . . William Allen White's auto license number is 13-1313. Mr. White feels nobody would want to steal a car with so unlucky a license number . . . Knudsen originated mass production not Henry Ford. In 1911 told Ford his ideas on mass production and Henry immediately hired him as production manager . . . What became of fellow who made the sneering remark "nobody loves a fat man." The British royal air force commanders like fat men. They say fat men are the best war fliers and are better able to stand long flights and the cold of high attitudes than thin men.

MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, July 9—As I look back on Sunday, I spent most of the day in a very churchlike atmosphere.

After morning service, and lunch at the big house, with the Postmaster General as our guest, I returned to the cottage. I worked for an hour and then groups of people began to stream past my window. Little by little, our picnic grounds filled up.

We had agreed to give the grounds for a meeting of the Christian Action Committee for Scandinavian Relief. It is a church group in which many Scandinavian churches have joined to collect money and send what they can to alleviate suffering in the Scandinavian countries. Considerable sums have already gone to Finland.

WE WAITED some time for the buses to arrive, so I went out to the picnic grounds at intervals and talked to various guests, until finally, the service started.

There was singing by the Norwegian choir, and a very lovely young Norwegian girl. The hymns were sung by the entire gathering and I thought the simple prayers and talks both dignified and impressive.

I particularly liked the pastor, who reminded the gathering what their people had come to do in the United States, and who ended with a number of very apt suggestions. One: "There should be more paint on the home and less on the young girls' faces," provoked considerable laughter.

Scandinavian-American children, like nearly all other children nowadays, collect autographs and I signed a considerable number before I left my picnic guests.

THEN I drove over to Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt's house to have a little talk with Bishop Atwood, who is staying with her

He is always full of the latest political news, frequently coming up here directly from some of his more conservative, Republican friends, so I always enjoy a little chat on the trend of feeling in foreign and domestic affairs.

The President left again Sunday evening. I hope, next time, he can stay for a week, but of course, nothing is certain these days.

We left Hyde Park yesterday morning for a very busy day in New York City. The first important engagement was one at noon at La Guardia Field, when the Walter Mack job awards for American youth were presented at a reception and lunch. The idea seems to me a very interesting one, and the awards seem well worth while and should stimulate young people to put forth their best efforts.

I understand that Mr. Mack hopes that his idea will be followed by other business firms. I certainly think it would do much to encourage a great many young people if more firms showed real interest in giving them job opportunities.

MRS. GODOY TO PLAY SPANISH SCARLETT

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, July 9—" . . . yes, I know—you want a little peace, a little security, a little farm . . . Don't we all? But that comes hard . . . What? Columning's hard? . . . Now, now—I know you. You'd like to run right down to the corner and change the street sign from "92d" to "Easy."

11 P. M.: "Adolf Berle was visited at the State Department by Glenn Allen, who once studied under Berle and who now is a judge's secretary," a Washington visitor reports at the Barberry Room. "Berle greeted him with a question: 'What's the capital of Brazil?' and then quizzed Allen for 15 minutes on South American geography, history and trade. 'I was trying to prove to myself,' Berle explained, 'just how little the American public knows about our most important neighbors.'"

HARRIOT HOCTOR

12 P. M.: "My wife," Arturo Godoy announces at the Riviera, 'will play Scarlett O'Hara in the Spanish version of 'Gone With the Wind.'"

1 A. M.: "Harriet Hoctor will feature a new ballet called 'Harp With a Woman's Head,'" a dance director reports at Lum Fong's. "Judge Healy, the SEC commissioner, suggested the dance to her" . . . "I sat with this girl, and then got a long distance phone call," Proprietor Monte Proser relates at the Beachcomber. "I asked a friend sitting near by to come over and mind the girl for me. When I came back a half hour later, I noticed a strained feeling between them, so I took him aside and asked what was the matter. 'You dope,' he screamed at me, 'don't you know that girl's my ex-wife? We were divorced last week.'"

4 A. M.: "Sally Rand is returning to Broadway," an agent informs at Leon & Eddie's. "She's bringing her troupe of 40 to the Park Central's Cocoanut Grove.

5 A. M.: Max Waxman, manager of Jack Dempsey, corners Harry Mendel, manager of Tony Galento, and suggests that a fight be promoted between both their charges . . . "Galento," Mendel states, "got $500 for refereeing a fight in Montreal. Yesterday we got an offer of $600 to go back and referee another fight there. I guess the cables to Montreal must've been cut—and they hadn't heard of the Baer fight."

6 A. M.: "And you said you'd be home earlier . . . Frankly, there's no use in our looking at farms to buy unless we get the consent of the ASPCA . . . Because you'd get home at this hour, and you'd be waking the roosters."

CONGRESSMAN JOSEPH W. MARTIN, JR., the G. O. P.'s unanimous choice for Speaker of the House, will step off at Atlantic City for a two-day vacation when Congress takes a recess Saturday . . . The political sage of North Attleboro will hie himself then to his hometown for a five or six days interlude . . . Meantime, with the wires humming with predictions that announcement was to be made today of Congressman Martin's acceptance of Wendell L. Willkie's invitation to manage the Republican presidential campaign, business was going on as usual at Joe's prosperous newspaper, the North Attleboro Chronicle.

JOE'S BROTHER, CHARLIE, active boss of the paper, held shirt-sleeved court—as usual—to friends and followers (although the two are synonymous), and no change in the routine indicated that the more famous Martin had been honored signally again by his party . . . Jim (The Deacon) Lavery, one of the few original Martinites, paid his nightly visit to the Chronicle office . . . Representative Frank Kelly dropped in . . . Another Martin follower called at the Chronicle office as a probable place to find a picture of the congressman . . . It seems the mails are choked these days for requests for photographs . . . But there wasn't a picture at the newspaper office . . . There wasn't a photograph at the Martin homestead, and the inquirer was advised by Charlie that a visit to his sister's home would be unproductive also . . . The only pictures of North Attleboro's most famous citizen, excluding those which decorate the walls or mantelpieces of North Attleboro homes, are in Washington—in Joe's office . . . (Newspaper libraries, or "morgues," are filled with them, of course.)

ALTHOUGH Brother Charles will be unable to give fulltime to his brother's July-to-November cause, "Deacon" Jim Lavery, a lifelong fellow-townsman of the Martin boys, will be at Joe's side as an active helper in the task of bossing the huge Willkie campaign . . . Charlie was expecting busy days, with many visitors, at the Chronicle plant when the Congressman returns home.

BUT THE PROSPECT induced no pre-occupation, and one would believe that the chore of getting out a newspaper would be the first interest of the congressman's devoted brother . . . Distinguished visitors may be expected in North Attleboro next week . . . It's a safe wager, though, that the two large "No Smoking" signs which ornament the walls of the front office will not be taken down . . . But here's a tip to newspapermen . . . There's a dispensation come nightfall . . . Another tip—not guaranteed—is that Joe Martin's opposing campaign manager will not be James J. Farley.

MERLE OBERON BACK TO STUDIO IN FALL

By Louella O. Parsons

Merle Oberon

HOLLYWOOD, July 9—Merle Oberon, who has had such a really difficult time getting back her strength, is so much better that within a few weeks she will be completely well. Merle has just been coasting along, refusing all offers until she was sure she was all right. Her next picture will be "Kiss Me Again" for Ernst Lubitsch, an original story which he made some years ago and which was one of his best.

The title, of course, will be changed, but it has all the typical Lubitsch comedy and the scenes that he knows so well how to make—subtle, amusing and brilliant. Melvyn Douglas will be signed today to co-star with Merle and the starting date is Sept. 15, giving Melvyn a chance to finish his Claudette Colbert picture and Merle an opportunity to recover. Ernst's first for United Artists will be "Summer Vacation," by Ladislas Fedor.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: The Peggy Kent-Ern Westmore marriage has gone on the rocks; the Franklin D. Elsa entertained in honor of Cole Porter and she certainly deserved the title of "First Party Lady" for it was a grand affair. Barbara Hutton was there with Cary Grant. Was glad to see Myrna Loy and Arthur Hornblow, Frances and Sam Goldwyn, the Richard Barthelmesses, Mrs. Jack Warner, Countess Di Frasso, Virginia Zanuck, and many people I haven't seen since I came home from Honolulu.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

THE WHITE building with the red gasoline pumps standing at attention before it made a bright spot of color in the shimmering morning heat of the desert highway. A banner stretched between the pumps proclaimed in large red letters:

POP JONES' FILLING STATION . . . DRIVE IN!

Pop Jones adjusted the dark glasses on his nose, reached for the white cane beside his chair and rising painfully, limped out to where the green sedan had stopped with a raucous screech of brakes.

The driver's beady eyes took in the building, the empty highway and Pop Jones in one narrow glance. Then he slid from behind the wheel.

"Okay, Pop," he snapped, "Up with 'em and get goin'!"

POP felt the nudge of an automatic and wordlessly limped ahead of his customer.

"Had an idea ya cleaned up pretty good," he remarked conversationally, quick fingers stuffing bills and silver into a trouser pocket, "Only stop for 75 miles in this stretch of country."

The till empty, Pop was prodded outside again to the green sedan. The bandit slid back of the wheel and over the clash of gears, his voice came to Pop.

"Too bad you lost your sight, fella! Them posters they got out 'o me look sorta snappy. Nice wad o' dough for a reward, too. Well, I'll be seein' ya!"

Pop stood motionless beside the pumps until the car was a speck in the distance. Then he shuffled back into the building once more and over to the ancient telephone on the wall.

Some hours later, in the Courthouse of the next town, his earlier customer faced Pop Jones from between two guards.

"I' think a blind guy would put d' finger on me!" he said in complete disgust. "Me, who always give a 'blindy" two bits! My luck ain't holdin'!"

"Taint luck, Sonny," said Pop gently. "Like all crooks you jest got a mite careless."

HE removed the dark glasses to reveal faded but alert blue eyes.

"I ain't nowheres near blind. But when yer out all day in th' desert sun like I am, yer gotta wear these here glasses. And this white cane is one of th' scoveneers I sell customers. Sprained m' ankle a while back and it come in right handy."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WHEREVER YOU GO, you'll find people who will fail you, people who will lie to you, take advantage of you hurt or shock you by their coarseness and brutality.

And these people are bound to have a tremendous effect upon your life. In fact, they are the makings of your life. Their actions shape your viewpoint, determine your attitude, mold your character for better or worse.

"That's true," you say. "I've met people like that; the world seems to be filled with them lately. Fact is, they're getting me down, turning me sour. I used to believe everyone; now they've got to show me! But what can I do about it? You can't go around reforming the world:"

NO, you can't reform the world—and you're both a chump and a pain in the neck if you try. But, on the other hand, you can do plenty about your own reaction to the world. You don't have to let it get you down or turn you sour. You don't have to distrust the whole plan of Creation merely because your brother skipped out and left you holding his note. You can say—... "I might uv known it would turn out like this! I never did get a straight deal, anyway—and here's just one more proof that you can't trust anyone. No one will play fair with you, unless there's something in it for them. Honesty? Decency? It's the bunk! And I was a sap ever to believe in them. But you can bet your last bean, no one will make a sucker of me again!"

You can say that to yourself—and probably find ample evidence to confirm your conclusions. But suppose you do, what'll it buy you? Nothing but grief. On the other hand, you can face exactly the same circumstances and say this to yourself:

"Yes, this is certainly a raw deal. But, after all, why should I take it so personally? This didn't happen just because someone wanted to two-time me. It happened because we humans are still greedy children.

"Right now I'm burnt up by this particular piece of treachery. But lookit the number of times I have known love and loyalty! Lookit the number of times people have been patient and generous with me when I have failed them! It isn't strange that someone goes wrong, once in a while."

YOU can say that to yourself. You can choose to say it deliberately, instead of abandoning yourself to anger and self-pity. You can choose to take the long look. And take it from me, it brings lots bigger dividends!

Fall Hats to Sit Firmly

By ANNICE BRINK

WHILE you were wearing your new spring bonnet . . . the style moguls were busy with autumn creations . . . and before summer really gets a head start, here are their predictions . . . fresh from the salons!

All hats will sat firmly on the head. Most extend well down on the back of the head. Pillboxes, deep Andean bowl-shaped hats and even postillions are anchored atop tight-fitting knitted caps or "chullos," which are South American Indian hoods of silk jersey, lacy or wool which cling closely over head, throat and shoulders.

Lilly Dache is featuring a symmetric or square rather than round hats. And she is already showing some fur hats which are large!

Many hats are designed to be worn far back on the head behind pompadours and straight over the forehead between wings of hair.

Following the trend for width and accent at the temples, there is a new triangular shape, wide and square around and above the forehead and tapering sharply to a point at the nape of the neck.

Turbans of a new knit weave woolen and of hand-woven Peruvian fabrics, overseas caps of tweed and wool, moulded caps rising in smooth curves on top of the head and the significant "Minerva" cap, a skullcap with double wings at either side like the Goddess of War's helmet . . . these are all exciting new developments.

Cold Plate Luncheons

By MARTHA LEE

THERE'LL BE many days this summer when "something cold" will be the only encouragement offered if you ask, "What shall we eat?"

It is not too early to plan a bit for the lazy times ahead. Planning is perhaps the most difficult part of the job of feeding the family, and so much easier to do in advance of the emergency.

A summer luncheon plate of cole slaw, potato salad and sardines garnished with lemon wedges is nothing unusual, it's true, but when carefully prepared and attractively served, the combination is a great favorite.

To add to your file of menus for warm days, here are two cold plate luncheons which will look good and taste good and which will take not too much time to prepare early that morning.

MENU I

Chicken Salad in Crisp Lettuce Cup
Fresh Asparagus
Hollandaise Sauce
Radishes Celery
Hot Bran Muffins
Iced Tea with Lemon

MENU II

Fresh Fruit Salad
Cream Cheese and Watercress Sandwiches
Olives Carrot Sticks
Lemon Chiffon Pudding
Hot Coffee

CHICKEN SALAD

2½ cups cold diced chicken, marinated ½ hour in
5 tbsp. lemon French dressing
1½ cups diced celery
1 cup seedless grape halves
¾ cup mayonnaise

Combine all ingredients and serve in crisp lettuce cups. Garnish with lemon quarters. Veal may be substituted for chicken.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

4 tbsp. salad oil
2 tbsp. flour
1 cup milk
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. paprika
3 tbsp. lemon juice
2 egg yolks

Heat 3 tbsp. of oil in top of double boiler. Add flour and milk, stirring continuously until thick (about 10 minutes). Add the remaining oil slowly, stirring constantly. Remove from fire. Stir in salt, paprika and lemon juice. Beat in egg yolks thoroughly, one at a time. Reheat slowly, stirring all the time. Do not overcook. If sauce separates add 1 teaspoon cold water and stir well. Serve hot.

BRAN MUFFINS

2 tbsp. shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup sifted flour
2½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add unbeaten egg and beat well. Stir in bran and milk. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Add sifted dry ingredients and stir only until flour disappears. Bake in greased muffin pans in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 30 minutes. Makes 8 large or 12 small muffins.

The Cast of Characters in "Ignorance Is Bliss"

HARRY, a lawyer who invites his old college friend,
CHARLEY, to dinner. He explains that his other guest will be the father of JIM BROOKS, who was in college with Harry and Charley and was killed in the World War.

Ignorance Is Bliss

By Rosalind Shaffer

"He might be the most vicious, all-blooded, unscrupulous chiseler in the underworld, but to his mother he's still a good son.

"You've got something there," said Charley as he held the lighted match for Harry's cigarette. "I've seen it a dozen times myself. Fathers are just as blind as mothers. Perhaps Nature arranges things that way so that parents see their children as perfect and thus keep the species going. If our parents saw us truly as we are, perhaps most of us would stack up as worth the trouble they took raising us."

The two men were sitting in Harry's law office, chatting before the dinner hour. Old college friends, they often sat and talked a bit when time allowed. The office was large and well furnished, with the usual bookcases full of law volumes along the wall, comfortable leather armchairs and desks.

Harry's taste in paintings was good, and several fine landscapes hanging on the walls served him as an escape from the enclosing four walls of a courtroom and office existence. He could smoke and chat and rest his eyes on the sweep of mountain, valley and sea depicted on the canvases and feel calm returning to him, replacing the edgy nervousness of the courtroom battles.

"Say, Matt's out of town, why don't you stay down and take dinner with me tonight?" Harry asked Charley. "There's an old fellow who comes to dinner with me every once in a while, and this is his night. Perhaps you'd like to join us?"

"Well, if I won't intrude," said Charley.

Harry was about to speak again when the bell buzzed, and in came a little old man, neatly dressed, bright eyed but beginning to stoop a little with the weight of years.

JIM'S FATHER ARRIVES

Harry sprang to his feet to receive him, took his topcoat, brought him a chair, with a deferential yet protective air. Introductions were made; and Charley lifted one brow a bit when the name was mentioned. Harry was quick to say:

"You remember Jim Brooks, who was a freshman with me? This is his father. Wonderful fellow, Jim, one of the best. Died a hero's death in France, you remember? Plane shot down in flames by the enemy after he had sent seven of them down in the greatest dogman battle of the war!"

"Of course. 'Wonderful record for his country.'" Charley gulped a bit.

"I tell you," said Mr. Brooks a little later, when they were all seated at a table in a cafe, "things were pretty barren for me for a long time after Jim went. Seemed as if I couldn't take it. Mother had gone the year before, which left me alone. Jim was our only one. Dazed, I was. Couldn't put my mind on anything for a long time.

"Our Jim had been away from home most of the four years before the war, you see. He worked vacations or took trips. Mother and I always thought it hard that we saw so little of him, but we said to each other that he was young, and should see the world. We looked forward to when he would be home for good and take the business off my hands. The spring he was to graduate, you remember, the war came. Jim didn't get to see us except for one short leave after he enlisted.

"Not long after that Mother passed on. I grieved and sorrowed that she had not lived for the good times ahead, when Jim would come home at last. After Jim was killed, I felt comforted that God had spared her that, anyway." Tears stood in the faded blue eyes, but a smile came through them quickly. Then, leaning over confidentially toward Charley he said:

"You see, that's where Harry came in. I was wandering aimlessly around town one day, and noticed his name in the lobby of the building. I remembered seeing his face and his name in a yearbook of Jim's. I thought it might help to talk to some one who had been close to Jim those four years when we saw so little of him."

SOUGHT OUT HARRY

Charley looked at Harry. Harry gave no sign.

"So I took a chance and tried it. I went right into his office and sent in my name. I was rather disappointed at first, because he seemed a little distant; but afterwards I realized that it wasn't easy for Harry to overcome his emotion at seeing me. After what Harry and Jim had meant to each other all those years, to suddenly have it all brought back by my coming in, well—it was a shock to him, of course. He hadn't known where to reach me when he came West, you see. I'd sold the business. Didn't seem much point in keeping it when I knew Jim wasn't coming home any more."

Something tightened in Charley's throat. The old man continued talking.

"Since then, Harry's been the bright spot in my life. We've had long talks, and I feel I know Jim in a way I never had before. All the things Harry told me! About Jim painting the stone gargoyle on the Science Building green, and the time he dressed the statue of Lincoln in the long calico gown the night before the Memorial Day parade!

"Now at home Jim had always been a trifle too serious for my taste. I always said to Mother that a little clean and honest prankishness was good for a boy. When Harry told me of Jim's pranks, I really enjoyed it. Jim never wrote us any of those things, the rascal. I often sit at night when the evenings seem long and it is hard to go to sleep, and imagine Jim in all the doings that Harry has told me. It makes me feel closer to my boy."

Harry met Charley's accusing gaze with level eye. He even smiled.

The dinner period stretched into twice the time; cigars all around, a benedictine for a finale. Old Mr. Brooks seemed to acquire life and stature as the evening went along. He urged for another anecdote about Jim, and Harry obliged. It was a tale of how Jim had saved the basketball team their best player by hunting him up the night before the championship game and tying him into his bed. The fellow had had a breakup with his sweetheart and was threatening to get good and drunk. Jim had sat up with him all night, on guard, while the boy slept.

"So I took a chance and tried it. I went right into his office and sent in my name," the old man said.

DRIVE HAPPY MAN HOME

Harry insisted that they drive the old man home. Charley went along. He meant to have all this out with Harry on the way home. It was a long drive over to Pasadena from Los Angeles, and when finally they had deposited the happy old man on his doorstep, Charley blurted out:

"Now what's the lowdown on this, you pious humbug? What is all this stuff about Jim and your close friendship for him? I never heard such a bunch of hogwash in my life. It was nauseating."

Harry smiled. "Jim was no friend of mine, as you know. In our junior year, his slick conniving got me thrown out of my job on the college paper; it cost me something over $600 which I badly needed to complete the term. I had to drop out of school, you remember. I had to get a steady job to get me out of that financial hole. I swore I'd be even with Jim Brooks if it took me a lifetime. Harry paused. Charley began again.

"And that sickening bilge about his playful pranks. You know damned well he got the class president in a jam over that green gargoyle stunt, and it cost him some honors. Just because Jim resented his popularity. What he couldn't have, the friendship of his own kind, he couldn't stand to see other people have.

"And that Lincoln stunt! Didn't you know poor Harvey Wilkes got cut out of his grandfather's will for that? His grandfather was a strong G. A. R. man and he disinherited Harvey because of the 'desecration' of the statue of the Great Liberator! And after all that, I had to sit here tonight and listen to you two drooling over Jim. What's the idea?"

BOY SCOUT DAYS OVER

"Well, Charley, I didn't exactly plan it as a great Christian act of charity, or anything like that. My Boy Scout days are over. But the whole thing just grew out of the faith in that old man's eyes as he looked at me and silently pleaded with me to tell him he had had the kind of a son he had hoped to have.

"The lies came more easily as I went along. I hit on the simple expedient of telling him the truth in reverse. Take that basketball story I told tonight. I know Jim tried to get that fellow drunk so he could win a mangy bet; he put it over, of course, but I think he got more pleasure out of discrediting a good fellow than out of the money he cleaned up on the bets.

"As for his glorious death in France, I don't think a fellow as mean and yellow and scheming as Jim Brooks could ever change enough to be a real hero. The war gave him a chance to do the things physically that he had been doing mentally all his life. War makes heroes out of some darned funny guys, and the strangest hero of them all was Jim Brooks."

Charley spoke a bit wearily after him.

"What a revenge you've taken on yourself, Harry. If Jim's spirit is anywhere around when you and his father have those memorial dinners together, I bet he feels so mean and ashamed he crawls back on his astral shelf and just disintegrates with shame and—"

"Oh, I don't mind saying I get a little ashamed of myself at times; but, darn it, I can't let the old man down. Could you tell him what Jim was really like?"

"No" said Charley, meditatively, "I guess fathers have the same right to immunity from being forced to realize their children's shortcomings as mothers. I don't know what else you could have done, Harry."

AUSTEN LAKE

Cronin vs. McKechnie; Road to Inter-League Envy

WITH A SHYNESS STRANGE AMONG professional sport promoters, the National and American leagues are soft-peddling the most attractive charm of today's gala contest between the popular idols of their baseball circuits at St. Louis. This concerns the green-eyed envy which exists between the two syndicates and their mutual love for giving each other the kick-over in matters of athletic rivalry.

The two leagues collaborate peacefully enough in questions of interlocking business and generally live neighborly lives, but their jealousies are comparable with the Republican and the Democratic parties and their wishfulness to lick the other in World Series and All-Star games is as deep-seated as the urge to squabble between two street urchins of equal age.

For some reason, possibly dignity, the opposing league papas have not made any battle yipps about the merits of their all star- groups. For, when it was conceived originally in 1933 it wasn't supposed to be that kind of a game, what with being trimmed with charity, good will and a kind of carnival good nature. But it is now!—and the daddies of both leagues want this one as hard as any rival set of college alumni want that big football victory on Dad's Day.

It Began as a Fun-Game

DESPITE THE TEPID TONE OF THE publicity supplements which paint the All-Star game as a concentrated congress of baseball's most distinguished talent and a parade of personality in that pure and ornamental spirit with which Flo Zeigfeld used to strut his hand-picked luscious ladies for their eye-filling beauty, there is an underlying core of small-boy jealousy in today's game.

And the reason is this:

When the game was first founded seven years ago by a Chicago sport editor (Arch Ward) it was planned less as a contest than an innocent roundup of publicized characters in the Christian spirit of alms giving. The proceeds were, and are, devoted to old and indigent ex-ball players. So, as deans among the managers, Connie Mack and the late John McGraw, made the 1933 game a harmless show devoid of any significance by shuffling their players freely for the pure sake of display. Babe Ruth belted a sample home run, being, it was rumoured, fed a fat pitch for the purpose. And though the American League won, the National League said "Aw Shux! It was just a lot of fun."

Then in the next few years though Bill Terry and Frankie Frisch, as the National League managers continued to regard the games as picnic frolics between the Fat and the Thin men, Joe Cronin and Mickey Cochrane copped a sneak and aimed their heaviest guns to effect two more painful lickings.

N. L. Said It Wasn't Cricket

SO SUDDENLY THE NATIONAL LEAGUE got mad and sprayed around some exasperated tears, scolding Bill and Frankie for chumps. But the A. L. gave Joe and Mickey some loving pats for being smart boys. And the feud was on! The thing which had started in innocent merriment suddenly simmered into a boil of rivalry, where it is bubbling today.

As commercial people primarily concerned with income and outgo in their ball firms, you would not think that the club owners could get lathered up about a game which goes no deeper than the cold black type of the record books. Yet during last spring's sit-downs, I heard Sam Breadon, Powell Crosley and Larry MacPhail mourn about the smirch of losing five out of seven games had put on the National League's escutcheon and prayed that next time their side would light a charge of black blasting powder under the A. L. upstarts and blow them into the adjoining county.

So today, Joe "Attaboy" Cronin and Bill "Nice going kid" McKechnie are not giving any less than their best and are master-minding like they are getting a percentage of the gate instead of working for naught but a virtuous glow for aiding impoverished ball players.

The "Why" of the Red Sox

WITH CANNY WULL McKECHNIE, the boss of the Cincinnati Reds, and genial Joe Cronin, the cordial leader of the Red Sox, this might have been a preliminary test of managerial brains for the 1940 World Series. It might still be so! But I fear that it will take a small miracle to lift the Sox higher than third place this season. For, if pitching is still 75 per cent of a ball game's strength—an estimate originally made by Walter Johnson—then our springtime optimists are sub-par in the most important department. Indeed it is not an imposing display

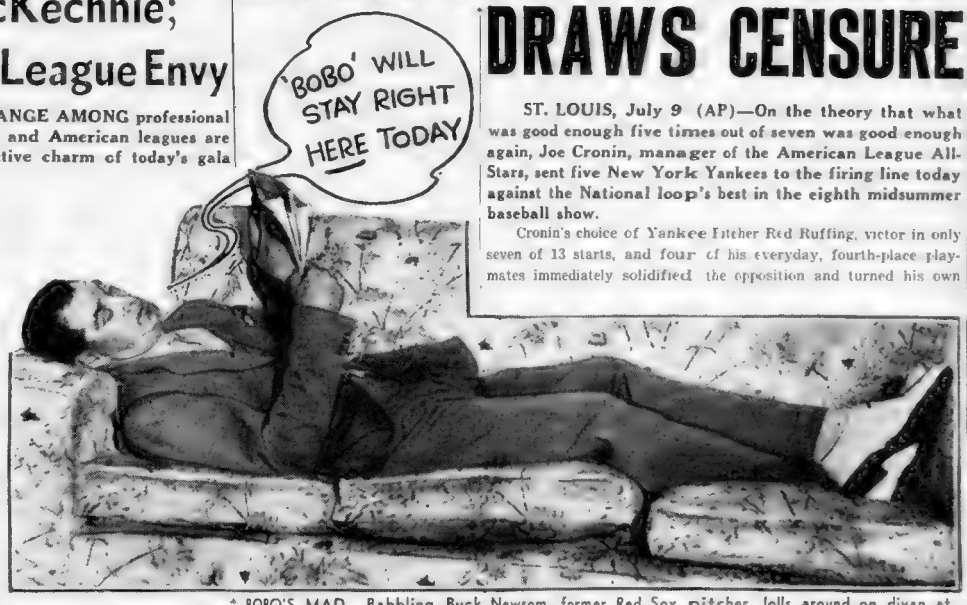
CRONIN'S YANKEE LINEUP DRAWS CENSURE



BOBO'S MAD. Babbling Buck Newsom, former Red Sox pitcher, lolls around on divan at hotel, pouting because he has not been chosen to start against N. L. All-Stars this afternoon in St. Louis. Newsom, now with Detroit, has won 12 straight games for Tigers this year. Red Ruffing of Yanks has been given starting nod by Manager Joe Cronin.

ST. LOUIS, July 9 (AP)—On the theory that what was good enough five times out of seven was good enough again, Joe Cronin, manager of the American League All-Stars, sent five New York Yankees to the firing line today against the National loop's best in the eighth midsummer baseball show.

Cronin's choice of Yankee pitcher Red Ruffing, victor in only seven of 13 starts, and four of his everyday, fourth-place playmates immediately solidified the opposition and turned his own forces into such chaos that last-minute revision of his lineup is not unlikely.

Louis (Buck) Newsom, vocal pitcher for the Detroit Tigers who has won 12 games in a row, threatened to deny the 33,000 spectators a chance to watch him if Cronin stuck to his decision of five Yanks, two Boston reliables and one each from Washington and Chicago as the starting nine.

As hot as the arguments were, the weatherman promised ideal conditions for the game with fair skies and a temperature near the 90-mark.

FINNEY MAY GET IN

But apparently the Yankees of the past, like girls with rouged lips eating corn-on-the-cob, left their marks as Cronin ignored such youngsters as Lou Boudreau and Ray Mack of Cleveland, for the "old folks."

And although the payees were denied the chance of seeing the Indian infield papooses start, Cronin declared he would substitute freely

It is also likely that Lou Finney of the Boston Red Sox, benched by the Yank-loaded outfield, also will swing his heavy bat in a relief role.

Meanwhile silent Bill McKechnie of the Nationals nominated players from six different clubs for his starters and said he hoped to use all 25 players on his roster.

He couldn't make up his mind whether to start Paul Derringer or Bucky Walters, both of his league leading Reds, as the starting hurler until a final peek at them in their warmups.

McCORMICK ON BENCH

Despite the blasts aroused by the American League lineup the team's supporters agreed on one thing. The past four years their

'Won't Sit On Bench,' Says Buck

ST. LOUIS, July 9 (AP)—Buck Newsom, winner of 12 consecutive games for the Detroit Tigers, exploded when he heard he hadn't been named to start for the American League in today's All- Star game.

"With my record I don't have to be a relief pitcher for anybody," he shouted. "I've been named to four All-Star games and spent every one in the bullpen.

"But they can let some other guy work the whole nine innings for all I care. Bobo won't be there."

Empire Handle $750,000 Daily

Although the Empire City track is the most inconvenient to reach of all those in the metropolitan district, it is doing the biggest business of the season according to the Associated Press. More than 94,000 paid admissions were recorded the first six days and the daily mutuel handle averaged more than $750,000. One explanation of its popularity may be that, while there were some notable long shots, an even 40 per cent of the favorites won during the first week.

Barrow, M'Carthy Yankee Jobs Safe If Farley Gets Club

By the Associated Press

Scooparade: Postmaster-General Farley has been patrolling Wall Street for two weeks trying to raise enough millions to buy the Yanks . . . Also, the firm which does the club's accounting has received a rush order for a complete financial statement on each of the farm clubs

So there is something in the air besides the gentle zephyrs . . . The 200 shares of stock owned by President Ed Barrow are currently valued at around $400,000 . . . If Farley does take over, it is pretty certain he'll ask Barrow to remain as general manager and Joe McCarthy as manager.

SUPERSTITIONS

Ball players are a superstitious gentry, but no more so than the golf pros . . . for years Bobby Jones would play only with balls stamped in black . . . Tommy Armour held out for green markings while Dick Metz uses only red tees . . . Billy Burke always smokes the same number of cigars to a round.

HARLOW TEACHING

The Yankees drew 68,135 people in two days and one night in Philly — more than the Phils have drawn there all season . . . Also, Cincinnati concessionaires sold 68,000 bottles of soft drinks during a recent doubleheader . . . . Coach Harry Mehre plans to fly the U. of Mississippi gridders to Boston for their game with Holy Cross Nov. 9 . . . Few know it, but Jimmy Demaret is as proficient a greenskeeper and golf course architect as he is a player and teacher . . Dick Harlow of Harvard is Doc Sutherland's assistant in this week's football school at Columbia.

FELLER'S FEARS

Somebody asked Bob Feller to name the five most dangerous hitters in the American League . . . He listed Charlie Gehringer, Taft Wright, Rip Radcliff, Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams . . . Honorable mention: Jimmy Foxx, Bobby doer and Joe Gordon.

PERSONAL MENTION

Ralph Guldahl has bought a home in the Bing Crosby development near San Diego, Cal. . . . Connie Mack is predicting Porter Vaughan, the former U. of Richmond pitcher, will develop into as good a twirler as the Mose Grove who patched the A's to three pennants . . . Gabby Hartnett, another bitter-ender, has refused point blank to catch a night game.

BAC KAGAIN

Hannibal, Missouri, which has been a bit shy of champs since it turned out Mark Twain, thinks it has another in Robert (Butch) Howell, who recently played 270 holes of golf in one day . . . He averaged 35 strokes per round, two over par, and wore out six caddies along the way.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Tom Meany, New York: "All star fans are beefing because Dixie Walker was ignored by the National League . . . Apparently the pickers don't believe it's true what they say about Dixie."

Totem Pole, Pets Risk Clean Slate

Both the unblemished records of the Boston Olympets and Totem Pole girls' softball teams in the New England League, will be endangered Thursday night when the two local teams take on their weekly out-of-state opponents at the Boston Garden.

The Pets will be facing their strongest opposition when they appear on the Garden floor in the second game of the evening against the strong Linden Girls of Newark, N. J.

Ben Levias' Totem Pole lassies take on the Rhode Island All-Stars again having once defeated them earlier in the season 4 to 2.

But it may be a different story on that opener as the Norumbega aggregation will be minus the services of Corinne Sauerwald, centerfielder, and Marie Malloy, smoothworking shortstop.

Broker Admits Yank Sale Near

CLEVELAND, July 9 (INS)— The Yankees will soon be in the hands of new owners, Smith Davis, Cleveland broker, reported today when he returned to his offices and confirmed rumors that he is the agent of a syndicate negoating the purchase. He would not comment, however, on reports that James A. Farley, postmaster-general, would have a financial interest in the purchase.

Midget Cars Race Again At Topsfield

Contenders for the New England midget auto racing championship move into the Topsfield Fair Grounds tomorrow night for another of the weekly speedfests on the floodlighted track which will be featured by a 25-lap whirl for the 12 fastest pilots.

The program of seven races will bring together Jack Greenwood of Lowell, leader in the title point standing; Frankie Simonetti of Watertown, Ed Eng of Jacksonville, Fla., Eddie Casteline of Malden and Charlie Street of Trenton, N. J., who this season has provided the most spectacular duels witnessed on the N. E. circuit.

Rufe Anderson of Nashua, N. H., 1939 N. E. champion, is expected to return to action for the first time since his crackup at Springfield two weeks ago. Red Allen of Albany, N. Y., who made his season's debut at Topsfield last Wednesday, is also slated to compete.

Other drivers for the fans to watch tomorrow night will be fast-traveling Herbie Colson of Hudson, N. H.; Dick Shubruk of Cohasset, Hermie DeLisle of Lowell, Danny Murphy of Daytona Beach, Fla.; Duke Carleton of Boston and Tommy Simonetti, Frankie's 19-year-old brother.

OVERLIN FAVORITE

NEW ORK, July 9 (INS)—Ken Overlin, recognized by the New York State Athletic Commission as middleweight champion, is a 2 to 1 favorite to beat Harry Balsamo of New York in a milk fund charity non-title match scheduled for 10 rounds tonight at the Queensboro Arena.

National League Endorses Helmets

ST. LOUIS, July 9 (AP) — The National League has endorsed helmets for batters in an effort to forestall serious injuries from pitched balls.

The action had no compulsory effect, leaving to the individual player the decision whether he wished to wear one.

DREAMING SWEET DREAMS OF DREAM GAME

waiting to congratulate him. Sox chieftains are in full power over A. L. lineup at St. Louis today, with Bill McKechnie pulling the strings for the senior leaguers.

'YANK' NINE DRAWS A. L. ROOTERS' IRE

theme has been that "the Yanks can beat them." Today they merely added a word and sang "Even the Yanks can beat them."

McKechnie bolstered his lineup with lefthanded hitters with Ruffing's selection and benched Frank McCormick Reds' first sacker, in favor of the Cardinals' Johnny Mize.

McCormick has played every inning in every all-star game since he entered the big leagues.

Outcry against Cronin's preponderantly Yankee lineup, the same tactics which won the 1939 game for the junior loop, may hasten the return of the game to the fans.

It was started in 1933 with the public selecting the players but after 1935 that task was taken over by the managers.

Their failure to name Barney McCosky of Detroit, Rip Radcliff of the hometown Browns, and Dixie Walker of the Brooklyn Dodgers—all leading candidates in their respective positions this season—drew censure.

The major league magnates last night recommended some method be devised by which the fans may indicate whom they would like to see play in the annual dream game. Detroit was awarded the 1941 contest.

The National League fathers endorsed helmets for batters but did not make the innovation compulsory. Agitation for the protection was started by the recent beaning of Joe Medwick, Brooklyn outfielder.

Red Sox Drill at Fens, Then Trip to Brockton

The Red Sox junior varsity engaged in a two-hour drill at Fenway Park this morning, lunched leisurely and then hied away for Brockton where this evening at 5:30 they play their sixth annual game with the Taunton Lumber Company for the benefit of the Lions' Club milk fund.

Coach Frank Shellenback was in charge of the party, the other Red Sox chie[illegible], Joe Cronin, Tommy Daly and Moe Berg, being in St. Louis for the All-Star game there this afternoon.

Also in St. Louis, were outfielders Lou Finney, Ted Williams and Doc Cramer and infielder Jimmy Foxx.

Lefty Grove is down in Maine on a fishing trip, and will not make the trip to Brockton, while Denny Galehouse, Jack Wilson, Herb Hash, Fritz Ostermueller and Emerson Dickma nalso are excused.

Charlie Wagner, who was shelled from the mound in the first inning last week in his first starting assignment for the Hose, will toe the rubber in Brockton tonight.

It is imperative that Handsome Charlie go the route because the only other pitchers going along are Jim Bagby, who is starting in left field, and Alex Mustaikis, just up from Scranton.

Tomorrow is another day of rest for the squad while Thursday the Sox will resume their major league schedule at Fenway Park, where they open a three-game series with the Chicago White Sox.

The St. Louis Browns, who took four straight from the Sox in the West, last month, will be here Sunday for a double header and single games on Monday and Tuesday, while the other western clubs will appear at Fenway Park later next week.

The probable line-ups tonight:

RED SOX—Carey, ss; Doerr, 2b, Spence, rf; DiMaggio, cf; Tabor, 3b; Owen, 1b; Bagby, lf; Peacock, c; Wagner, p.

LUMBERMEN—Bergeron, cf; LaFrance, 3b; Quinlan, c; Jones, lf; Sawyer, 1b; O'Connor, rf; Wedge, 2b; King, ss; Behn or Cheyunski, p.

Ailing Bees Hobble to Evansville

Evansville, Ind., July 9—A crippled Bees team limped into town this morning for a game with their Evansville farm hands here tonight.

The Boston boys came from Toledo, where they were defeated by the team that Casey Stengel, pushed to a pennant in '27, defeated by a 10-9 score when Centerfielder Tony Criscola hit a home run with two on in the ninth inning.

Stengle was presented with a traveling bag in Toledo, where the fans think highly of him. But Case would gladly give the bag to charity if he could have some of his ball players in the pink again.

Look at the list of casuals:

SEBBY SISTI—Hit on left elbow by pitched ball in first game with Brooklyn Sunday. Arm troubles him when hitting. May not play tonight.

STANLEY ANDREWS — Badly sprained right thumb, injured in bull pen.

AL PIECHOTA—Boils.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONW

CASEY STENGEL is not making any claims in behalf of his Bees, but he is secretly hopeful that the club will finish in fifth place. As the Bees won two games from the Dodgers on Sunday, they displayed sufficient ability to warrant Stengel's belief that his club can top the second division.

CASEY STENGEL

There were many fans who were planning to hop all over the Bees after the club let Al Lopez go to Pittsburgh, and Tony Cuccinello to the Giants to get needed cash for current expenses. The Bees then decided to take care of the matter of public interest themselves by winning ball games. This prescription has worked for the best interests of the club.

Neither Bob Quinn nor Casey Stengel wished to part with the services of Lopez and Cuccinello, but they were compelled to do so to secure funds for operating expenses.

The Bees have a young ball club, and their players should continue to improve. While in Florida last spring, Bob Quinn was quite frank in stating the Bees were two years away from the first division.

The rebuilding of a ball club that had gone so badly as the Bees is a slow process. It was first necessary to organize a farm system as a feeder for new material, and this was done by Secretary John Quinn.

It is no longer possible to go out into the open baseball market and purchase the players who are desired. If a club is to succeed over a period of years, it must have its own farm system from which it can draw the needed replacements.

The 22,000 crowd at the Sunday double-header is additional proof of the popularity of baseball. The pennant drive of the Dodgers has made a wide appeal to the public and the fans felt that the Bees had sufficient ability to give a good account of themselves against Leo Durocher's team. The men of Stengel didn't disappoint.

MIKE JACOBS favors Chicago as the site for the Louis-Baer title bout that is planned for September. Louis has not appeared in a Chicago ring since he won the championship at the White Sox ball park three years ago by knocking out Jimmy Braddock. Chicago is also only a short jump from many Middle West cities that have large populations. Detroit, Louis' home town, is within easy riding distance of Chicago.

There is a great deal of air travel between Chicago and other Middle West cities.

Max Baer has also fought some of his best battles in Chicago. The former champion will prove a better box office attraction in the Windy City than in any other spot.

Ray Arcel, who trained Baer for the Galento bout, told me that Max was in as good condition for that match as it was possible for him to get into. Baer fought in spurts of 20 seconds, and rated himself well. Max was in much better condition than Galento, and compelled Tony to go into a clinch after those occasions when the heavyweights indulged in carefree punching.

Corcoran Dark Horse In Salem Golf

By BILL GRIMES

PEABODY, July 9—A field of 114 contestants, representing 38 member clubs of the Massachusetts Golf Association, started play in the first round of the 36-hole qualifications of the 36th state amateur championship today at the Salem Country Club.

Teddy Adams, South Shore, 19-year-old defending champion, was out with Wilfred Crossley, Norfolk, a former state junior titleholder and the ex-New England amateur king, and Leo Martin Trapelo, the 1932 caddy champion of the Bay State, who was the medalist a year ago in this classic, with an all time low of 142.

Two years ago, Adams was stopped in his tracks by the Salem Country Club. He failed to qualify in the state junior championship but at that the Adamses got an even break for Ted's brother, Bob, went through and won the title.

ONE EX-CHAMP IN

Fortunately, Ted is not the worrying type of defending champion. He's a fatalist to the extent that he believes what's going to happen will happen. However, just before he teed off this morning Teddy did admit he thought he'd qualify, if he didn't make too many visits to the woods.

"There're a lot of 8's in those woods, waiting for somebody to pick them up," declared the champion, "but, I want no part of them. I got my quota two years ago, and I don't want to be hoggish. Give 'em to some of the other boys or let 'em lay for the members."

Although there is but one former state amateur champion, Joe Lynch, Blue Hill, in the field, Adams will encounter plenty of competition in the defense of his title.

The state amateur diadem has changed hands annually since Freddie Wright defaulted the title eight years ago at the Kernwood Country Club and Eddie Kirouac took it over.

WATCH CORCORAN

The following year, due in the main to the fact that he was a victim of stomach ulcers, Kirouac turned the title over to Lynch, who, in turn, lost it the ensuing year to Bill Blaney at The Country Club. Then came Eddie Stimpson, Clark Hodder, who failed to qualify at Winchester when he started to defend the title, Dave Whiteside, who did a "Hodder" the next year at Essex County, and Freddie Wright, for the seventh time, who defaulted.

Ted Bishop, Crossley, Emory Stratton, Joe Batchelder, Ray Marad, Mel Demarais, the Martin twins, Carl Nettelbladt and Lynch are mentioned favorably and frequently as the 1940 state amateur champion.

They are all entitled to high rating but one of the best bets in the entire field is Ken Corcoran, Oyster Harbors.

Although he has been playing golf for years, Corcoran did not develop a sound game until he began to play regularly at Oyster Harbors under the watchful eye of Gene Andersen.

Corcoran was the unsuccessful finalist in the 13th renewal of the Robert Todd Lincoln Memorial Cup tournament Sunday at Ekwanok.

In the semifinals, eliminated Trailer Bill Holt from Syracuse, N. Y., one of the country's outstanding amateurs, in a 20-hole match, but he was beaten by Ray Billows, Poughkeepsie, who was the runner up to Bud Ward, a year ago in the national amateur championship, 3 and 1, in the finals.

There is no question that Corcoran is the most improved amateur in the state. If the Robert Todd Lincoln tournament didn't take too much out of him, young Kenny will figure very prominently this week at the Salem Country Club.

CLUB FIGHT

There are eight clubs competing for the Windeler Shield, which is being defended by the Tedesco Country Club. The host club has 15 entri in the field among the outstanding of whom are Joe Batchelder, Bruce Coffin, Jackie Sheehy, Johnny McNiff, Clarence Farley, Bill Murphy, Jr., and Joe Melanson.

The George Wright Golf Club expects to figure in the battle for the famous trophy and has eight representatives in the field, while The Country Club, United Shoe, Trapelo and Green Hill each has six entries and Tedesco and Woodland five apiece.

The Windeler Shield is awarded to the club whose five members have the lowest aggregation score for the 36-hole qualifying rounds.

THREAT. Ray Marad, Gilchrist's super golfer, who is one of chief contenders for Teddy Adams' state amateur title at Salem this week.

Guy Vitagliano In '40 Debut At Dilboy

Former bantamweight champion, Guy Vitagliano, Medford, will make his first appearance of the year in the ring in the third elimination round of the 1940 Golden Glove Championship tomorrow night when the Dilboy Post, V. F. W., stages its weekly boxing carnival at Dilboy Field, Somerville.

Dick Volpe

Vitagliano, holding decisions over champion Harold Harris and Dick Volpe, has been out of ring action since last fall.

In this 126-pound class, Vitagliano will have some stiff competition especially from the intown Boston sector with Al Sforza again in the bidding for a spot in the finals.

Sforza reminded veteran fans of Wild Man Gould of Brockton with his clowning but the Boston boy still has a loud voice in the choice of the winner in this division.

Competition will be in the 126, 135, 147, 160 pound and heavyweight classes. Entries may still be filed with Fred Russo, 8 Curtis st., Somerville, or in care of the Somerville City Hall.

names. Howard Jacobs has returned to his homeland to attempt (laughingly), to "get a reputation" . . . It's a nearly perfect example of the old saw about the prophet who lacks the well-known "honor" in his old hometown . . . But Music-Master Mr. Jacobs knows his homeland isn't to blame . . . For sixteen and a half years, Howard devoted his talent to the entertainment of Mother England and the dominions . . . The Jacobs name means very little on this side—at this writing . . . So here's for a prediction that it won't be long now until it will . . . Musicians, we say confidently, will support this prediction.

HOWARD JACOBS CURRENTLY HEADS a compact grand little unit of eight men (including himself) which has been working, with an inexcusable lack of fanfare, at Weber Duck Inn . . . This is the famous Massachusetts wayside inn known far beyond the state's borders for the quality of its home grown ducks . . . Until the new Providence four-lane pike diverted motor traffic from the inn's very door to a crease on the landscape a half-mile distant, the Weber Duck Inn prospered greatly . . . And since last March, when the Jacobs crew took over the bandstand, renewed prosperity has come over the pike.

for a farm system which has some 150 players under contract around the country and has spent an estimated $500,000 under the ministry of Billy Evans.

These players are tucked away in the little hay-mow leagues of the South, and the check-room circuits of the Middle West and the college hot houses thither and yon. The Red Sox are growing pitcher's up. Somehow, somewhere in this plan there is a case of arrested development.

Today, ironically, Cronin is calling upon Buck Newsom, the cuckoo Detroit pitcher whom the Sox gave away for string, stamps and something out of the cellar a few years ago. Buck was a screwball pitcher, both in deed and delivery, so the Sox, with their policy of never allowing uproarious nuisances to remain on the club, sent him away.

But today, big, bumbling Buck has a 12-game winning streak and is the biggest single factor in Detroit's climb to the league lead. And Cronin probably sheds many a bitter inward tear that he let the mischievous crackpot go. Buck's 12 straight wins would give Joe's bad firm the necessary leg-up to a pennant.

Over Helgoland—Flying only 50 feet above the water in Germany's Helgoland Blight, American-built Lockheed Hudson planes are pictured during a British raid on the Nazi base. The British say these planes have proved to be marvelous fighting ships of amazing durability . . . and not one has ever been brought down, either by enemy plane or by anti-aircraft fire.

Church Hit—Struck by German air bombs in a night raid over southern England, this church was demolished in resulting fire. Here, steel-helmeted English firemen douse the ruins with water before entering to salvage what might have been spared. British censor withheld the location.

Self Service—Although he might have his gun cleaned by a hired man under different circumstances, John H. "Jock" Whitney, Gotham society-sportsman, cleans his own rifle at Plattsburg, N. Y., where 800 business and professional men are taking a 30-day army training course. In the event of war, the men will serve as officers.
